FIERCE FIGHT IN PHILIPPINES

Gen. Leonard Wood's Forces Kill Three Hundred Moros in Battle.

AMERICAN LOSS IS 26

Seven Are Killed and Nineteen Wounded Among United States Troops.

NATIVES DRIVEN INTO SWAMP

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

MANILA, May 15.—Fierce fighting has been going on the last two weeks on the island of Jolo between the outlaw Moro chief, Pala, with 600 well-armed followers and troops under the personal command of Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood. Pala's losses thus far are 300 killed, while those of Gen. Wood are seven killed and 19 wounded. Pala and his remaining followers, in accordance with Moro tradition, prefer death to capture.

Gen. Wood, with detachments from the Fourteenth cavalry, the Seventeenth, the Twenty-second and the Twenty-third infantry and constabulary scouts, has driven Pala and his followers into a swamp, which has been surrounded.

Pala was a noted slave trader and warrior when the Americans occupied the islands. Later he escaped with his followers to the island of Pula Bekar, near Borneo. One of Pala's leaders deserted and took refuge in the British settlement at Lahad. Pala, discovering his whereabouts, landed with a following and demanded of the British magistrate that he turn the deserter over to him. The demand was not complied with, and Pala ordered a massacre. Twenty-five persons, including several Britons, were killed. Pala escaped to the island of Jolo and organized the present uprising.

It is reported that the Borneo authorities requested Gen. Wood to apprehend Pala, dead or alive, and turn him over to them.

FIND NO EVIDENCE THAT CROKER WAS MURDERED

Negro Porter Is Released and Chinamen Are Held for Conducting an Opium Resort.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

KANSAS CITY, May 14.—The police have completed their investigation of the visit of Herbert V. Croker, son of Richard Croker, formerly New York Tammany leader, to an opium resort and to North End saloons, preceding his death in an Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe train near Newton, Kas., Friday morning, and unless the relatives of young Croker request it, no further action on the case will be taken by the Kansas City police.

Charles Wilson, negro porter at the Coates' hotel, who accompanied Croker to the opium den and later put him on a train, was released from jail today. Ah Lee and Ghee Kee, proprietors of the opium resort, are held, and they will be prosecuted in police court for conducting an illegal business.

Richard Croker, Jr., passed through Kansas City today on the way to Newton to get the body of his brother, which will be taken to New York. Two detectives met Richard Croker, Jr., at the station and told him the particulars of his brother's visit to Kansas City. Croker asked if it could be possible that his brother had been murdered, and when told that the result of the investigation did not justify that belief, he intimated that no further investigation of the case would be requested.

BURGLAR KILLS POLICEMAN, WHO WOULD NOT HURT HIM

Later Jumps from Train by Which He Escaped and Is Borne Away in Automobile.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ERIE, May 14.—Police Sergeant James Higgins, who has been in service 22 years, was murdered about 2 o'clock this morning while arresting a burglar who was coming out of the Central school building.

He told the burglar he would not hurt him, but the stranger drew a revolver and fired three times, every shot taking effect. Higgins died in about an hour, after telling how he had torn the overcoat from the man while trying to hold him after he had been shot. Mayor Saltsman has offered a personal reward of $200, and to this amount the city and county will add $2,000 tomorrow.

Reports from Girard, where the burglar is said to have jumped off a fast train after making his escape, indicate that he had an accomplice, who carried him away in an automobile.

SAVE MAN FROM MOB.

Detectives Arrest Italian Who Is Said to Have Kicked Boy.

Detectives Charles Aymer and George Cole rescued an Italian, who refuses to give his name, from an infuriated mob of 500 people who were chasing him down Wylie, near Fifth avenue, about 7 o'clock last night.

According to the police the Italian took offense at a boy who had teased him, and began to kick the boy in a brutal manner. The boy's cries attracted passersby who started to the rescue. The prisoner will be given a hearing today.

Minister Conger Arrives.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—E. H. Conger, formerly American minister to China, arrived today from the orient, on the steamer Siberia. Mr. Conger is accompanied by his wife. After a brief stay in San Francisco Mr. Conger will go to Mexico to assume his post as ambassador.

WRECKERS DITCH SANTA FE TRAIN

Six Persons Are Injured Near Emporia, Kan., and Two May Die.

FOURTH ATTEMPT SUCCESSFUL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

EMPORIA, KAN., May 14.—An Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe passenger train was ditched by train wreckers today just east of Emporia. Six passengers were injured, and two will probably die.

THE INJURED.

JAMES EUGER, 79 years old, of the Soldiers' home at Leavenworth, fatally injured.

J. O. RICE, ear repairer, left ear partly torn off.

NATE HENDRICKS, Rosewell, N. M., cattle raiser, seriously hurt.

J. L. COOPER, Spickards, Mo., elbow fractured.

E. A. TAYLOR, Kansas City, Mo., conductor, cut on scalp, four teeth knocked out.

F. A. GROVER, fireman, Topeka, thrown from cab.

This is the fourth attempt in the last four months to wreck passenger trains in the same place. Previous attempts were made by piling ties on the track, and without serious results. Today's wreck was caused by removing the spikes and fish-plates of two rails on the inside of a curve. The locomotive passed over the loose rails safely, but a mail car left the track and was dragged 100 yards along the embankment before the train was stopped. The next five cars, two express and baggage car, a smoking car and two day coaches, went into the ditch across the right-of-way fence. The end of the baggage car went up in the air high enough to ground the telegraph wires. Two Pullman cars remained on the track.

The passengers were asleep when the wreck occurred and became greatly excited; but they soon formed a wrecking crew and went to the relief of the men in the overturned car. A window was broken, and of the seven men in the car six were injured. An hour after the wreck a relief train took the injured to Emporia.

There is no clue to the wreckers. Three men were seen last night near the Howard branch section house. This morning a track wrench and a crowbar were missing and they were found in a pool of water near the wreck.

TORNADO CELLARS BEING DUG IN OKLAHOMA

Sentry to Be Stationed in One Town, Two Persons Are Killed in Indian Territory.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LAWTON, OKLA., May 14.—As a result of the tornado at Snyder, Okla., inhabitants of the "New Country" in Oklahoma are digging 5,000 tornado cellars. Some towns have passed ordinances requiring the digging of caves. At Hinton, Okla., the following official public notice has been published: "On nights when clouds look at all dangerous, a sentry will be stationed in the bell tower, provided with a repeating shotgun. If there is apparent danger, he will ring the bell and fire a number of shots in quick succession. Also any person who sees a storm coming when the sentry is not stationed will be expected to fire a gun."

ARDMORE, I. T., May 14.—In a storm that swept over Sulphur, Ada and other points in the Chickasaw nation, a number of houses were destroyed. John Layton was killed at Sulphur, and George Bolen near Ada.

SNYDER, OKLA., May 14.—Four more of the persons injured in Wednesday night's tornado died today, namely, Miss Chist, Mr. Paulson, John McCart and Miss Buser. This brings the total number of dead to 117. A number of persons are missing, and several of the injured are in a critical condition.

Earthquake Scares Pleasure Seekers.

PARIS, May 14.—(Special Cable.)—The Riviera has again been shaken by an earthquake which, although not as violent as that of two weeks ago, was still severe enough to scare the people badly and cause thousands of the gay crowd to move from Nice and along the Riviera. The earthquake, which seemed to move from the east to west, was felt even in Switzerland.

ADMITS KILLING NON-UNION MAN

On Hearing of Confession of Chicago Labor Leaders, "Slugger" Makes Statement.

NEW DEATH MARKS STRUGGLE

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 14.—Furious over his betrayal by the officials of the Carriage and Engine Workers' union No. 4, Charles Wheeler, paid "slugger" and accused by the police of the murder of M. C. Carlston, a non-union worker, today admitted his guilt to Police Inspector Lavin. Charles J. Casey, business agent of the union, and Henry J. Newman, ex-financial secretary, who had confessed hiring the "sluggers," were present and Wheeler was confronted with their confessions.

Two more members of the executive committee of the union were arrested and charged by the police with being accessories to the murder of Carlston. They are John Heiden, a blacksmith, and Frank Novak.

Casey and Newman in their cells in the Harrison street police station reiterated their statement that Gilhooley, with Edward Feeley and Mark Looney, had been hired by them to "slug" men working in the establishment of the Meckel Carriage Company. Gilhooley had collected from them for these jobs at the rate of $15 a job, and had received $2 for his car fare and other expenses.

Carlston was attacked by Gilhooley and severely beaten. He died afterward in a hospital. Two other men were beaten and Gilhooley collected for each of these "jobs." Inspector Lavin and Detectives Kane, Bidddinger, Sheehan and Howe, who worked on the case, consider they have enough evidence now to convict Gilhooley of murder and the members of the executive committee and officers of the union of being accessories to the fact.

Another death today was added to the list of strike victims, making a total of nine deaths attributed to the strike. John Cahill shot James Jennings, colored, in the head, and killed him. Cahill declares he killed the negro in self defense, while arguing over the strike.

A call was sent out for a meeting of the teamsters' joint council for tomorrow night. In addition to this meeting a call was issued today for a meeting on Tuesday of the executive committee of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

It is believed the strikers will reconsider their decision Saturday night to extend the strike.

Marching with draped banners and muffled drums, more than 2,000 union men today followed the body of George S. Pierce, a striking teamster, who was killed by a deputy sheriff, from his home to the Union Station, whence the body was taken over the Pennsylvania railroad to Louisville, Ky., for burial.

GAS WRECKS A HOUSE.

Man's Pipe Causes Explosion—Members of Family Hurt—Child Blown Into Yard.

BEAVER FALLS, May 14.—(Special.)—As George W. Stanley struck a match to light his pipe just as he had stepped into the cellar of his home in Seventh avenue this afternoon, there was a terrific explosion caused by the ignition of gas, supposed to have been escaping from a gas main. Stanley was knocked down and severely burned. Mrs. Stanley, who was upstairs, was painfully burned by flames that shot up the stairway. A grandchild was blown into the yard. The windows of the house were shattered and the walls were loosened so that the structure will have to be razed and rebuilt. The loss is placed at $1,000. Mr. Stanley is in a serious condition from burns and shock.

Hon. David D. Taylor Dead.

ZANESVILLE, O., May 14.—(Special.)—Hon. David D. Taylor died at noon today at Cambridge of pneumonia, contracted while canvassing in behalf of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor. He was an ex-member of the state legislature, father of the "Masher" and Standard time laws of Ohio and had been editor of the Guernsey Times for 45 years. He was a civil war veteran.

GOT MUCH MONEY ON BOGUS THRONE

Woman Swindler Declared She Could Overthrow the Government of Austria.

SHE OPERATED IN BOSTON

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

BOSTON, May 14.—The flight from Boston of a woman who has been operating here for the last eight years has revealed, so the police say, one of the most astounding swindles ever perpetrated in this city.

Professing to be Carlotta, widow of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, who was shot in 1867, and who was a brother of the present Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, this woman persuaded some Boston Italians that if they raised the funds she could overthrow the present Austrian emperor and would herself be crowned empress. By this interesting representation the woman, with an accomplice, who represented himself as the Crown Prince Rudolph, has got away with at least $40,000 advanced for her scheme.

The woman made use of the rumors which have prevailed in regard to Crown Prince Rudolph, who is supposed to have killed himself in 1889, and who is believed by some persons to be alive. "Carlotta" impressed her alleged dupes by maintaining in her home a royal court. When the Italian who contributed the funds for the international plot called upon her, they found her seated upon a throne, wearing a crown and surrounded by "courtiers."

One of the most interesting features of her operations to impress those who advanced the funds was on the occasion of the visit of an Austrian warship to Boston several months ago. She made up a party and went out to the warship at night. She carefully timed her visit so that her approach to the vessel would coincide with the firing of the salute, fired as courtesy to the Charleston navy yard. As her boat neared the vessel, the guns boomed and the Italian moneylenders were convinced.

One of the interesting features of the swindle is that an organ grinder in the North End advanced $1,500, which he had earned after many years of melody grinding, because it was a cheap price to pay for the assurances that he would be appointed court musician at the throne of the reinstated "Carlotta."

LANDSLIDE IN TUNNEL BLOCKS WABASH ROAD

Passengers Transported to Rook in Trolley Cars—West Side Belt Is Also Tied Up.

A landslide in Wabash railroad tunnel No. 2, a short distance north of Rook station, at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, seriously crippled the service at the Pittsburgh terminal. Over 100 yards of earth came down, burying the tracks to a depth of 10 feet. Two gangs were placed at work, and it was expected to have the debris cleared away in order that all trains can be operated as usual this morning. No person was injured by the accident.

The trains on the West Side Belt road were annulled, although the landslide occurred several miles from the branch line. The rolling stock of the West Side Belt had been taken to Rook yards on Saturday evening and not a single car or locomotive was to be had at the Pittsburgh station which could be used to make up a train. Passengers over the main line were transferred in trolley cars to Idlewood and trains proceeded thence to Rook, where a terminal was established.

BARON ROSEN WILL HELP PRESIDENT'S PEACE EFFORTS

LONDON, May 15.—The Daily Telegraph's Tokyo correspondent says:

"Baron Rosen, who will be the new Russian ambassador to the United States, openly belongs to the peace party and will assist President Roosevelt in his efforts for peace. He was aware of Japan's preparedness for war, but was unable to stay his government's hands."

FASTEST RIDE OF THEIR LIVES

Railway Congress Delegates Carried 54 Miles in 43 Minutes.

DASH ACROSS JERSEY

Meeting Adopts a Resolution in Opposition to Rate Discrimination.

AUTOMOTORS ARE INDORSED

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau, Young's Ocean Pier, ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 14.

Foreign railroad officials, who are attending a conference in Washington, were given the fastest dash in an express train of their lives today over the Atlantic City branch of the Reading railroad. The distance is 54 miles, and the train was made up of five coaches, with one of the heavy locomotives of the Atlantic City service attached, in charge of Engineer Falls. It crossed the state in 43 minutes. Official time is not given. The railroad men were reticent and declined particulars.

In the party, besides several Reading officials, were Theodore Laurent, engineer of the Railroad D'Orleans, France; A. C. Ellis, general manager of the Metropolitan of London; McDougall Drummond, London & Southwestern; A. C. Anworth of the London board of trade.

The regular time for the journey by the fast express travel is 60 minutes from Philadelphia and about 55 minutes from Camden. The time today is supposed to be the best in the history of the local train. The run was made when all regular travel was off the line and was done to give the foreigners the experience of dashing over the 54 miles of stone ballasted roadway to show its smoothness in running, and to illustrate the speed which can be secured from the regular type of locomotive not built purposely for a racing machine.

Congress Opposes Discrimination.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The conclusions adopted by the international railway congress, which closed its seventh session here yesterday, were officially announced today. The most interesting of the conclusions related to railway rates on which, after a prolonged discussion in which every country in which railways are operated was represented, the congress unanimously expressed its conclusions as follows:

Tariffs should be based on commercial principles, taking into account the special conditions which bear upon the commercial value of the service rendered. With the reservation that rates shall be charged without arbitrary discrimination to all shippers alike under like conditions, the making of rates should, as far as possible, have all the elasticity necessary to permit the development of the traffic and to produce the greatest results to the public and to the railroads themselves.

Preservation of Sleeping Cars.

These conclusions were ratified at the close of the session after President Roosevelt's recent speeches had been a topic of discussion, and two days after Secretary Taft's address on foreign rates at the banquet of the congress.

Regarding methods of treating railway sleepers chemically, or otherwise, to protect them against deterioration and destruction by wear and by the elements, and in that way to lessen present demands upon the country's forest supply. It was determined that some method of preserving sleepers was desirable, and it was urged that careful records of experiments should be kept.

With regard to locomotives, the conclusion was that "The power of locomotives is more limited in Europe than in America, owing to the lower allowance of weight per axle. European engineers generally agree in thinking that compounding admits of the construction of engines giving a maximum of power and economy." There is a tendency to extend the use of steam heating in many countries, the congress found. To obtain sufficient heat for long trains and for times when the temperature is particularly low, it was deemed advisable to use special pipes or to mix compressed air with the steam.

To Encourage Branch Lines.

"Light railways (branch roads) merit in the highest degree the attention of public authorities," the congress concludes. "Their construction makes it possible to encourage the progress and development of districts which have previously remained in the background, and it is accordingly not only the interest, but the duty, of the government to assist them. It is desirable, therefore, not to adhere to old types, and old methods of construction, operation and regulation, but to introduce every facility possible, adaptable to local needs and available resources. It is also desirable that state governments and local authorities should accord to light railways, either under the form of subsidies, regulation of requirements or other methods of assistance, the support which they need, both for construction and for operation, so that all parts of the country may be adequately served."

The congress expressed the wish "that the present tendency of legislation to establish more liberal regulations for lines with small traffic, and light trains may become more general, and that the efforts of the management to equip their light traffic lines with a more economical organization, which promise to give remarkable results, be continued."

Automotors Are Discussed.

The movement toward the electrification of certain American railway lines lends additional interest to the consideration by the delegates of automotors. The congress declares that experiments with this class of vehicle should be continued. "It may be expected," the conclusion says, "that from now on automobile cars and automotors hauling trailers will constitute a valuable means of transportation, which on some lines will have a great future. Owing to the saving in the number of employes required, the probable reduction in cost of maintenance, the

Henry Pappernak Believed to Be Among the Unknown Dead.

GRIM LIFE TRAGEDY

Harrisburg Wreck, It Is Thought, Ended Romantic Career of Young Pittsburgher.

OTHERS INJURED MAY DIE

Another Pittsburgher is believed to be among the victims of the Pennsylvania railroad disaster at Harrisburg. One of the six bodies of the unidentified dead, it is thought, will be that of Henry Pappernak, a dealer in incandescent supplies in this city, who went to New York on the romantic mission of meeting his brother and two sisters, who had just arrived from Europe, and whom he had never seen. Steps were taken last night toward securing the identification of the missing man.

Mr. Pappernak came to Pittsburgh only a few months ago. Among his friends here was N. E. Price, an oculist in a local department store. To Mr. Price he related how he was left an orphan at a tender age, and the other members of his family were widely scattered. He was 28 years of age and came to this country in childhood.

Dealt With George Zelger.

He was successful in his business undertakings and on coming to Pittsburgh met with instant prosperity. He had extensive dealings with the Incandescent Supply Company, of which George Zelger,

JOHN WESLEY ANDERSON.
Father of Frank Wesley Anderson, Who Is Dead, and Himself in a Serious Condition.

another victim of the wreck, was treasurer.

About three weeks ago Mr. Price met his new-found friend in a Fifth avenue restaurant, and while they ate dinner together, Mr. Pappernak, with unwonted enthusiasm of manner, remarked that he wanted to share the best news he had ever received and which any lonely man could hope to receive.

"What is that?" asked Mr. Price.

"I always believed that I was alone in the world," answered Mr. Pappernak. "I lived under the impression that there was no one living whom I could call my own. Now, imagine my surprise, when I learn that I have two loving sisters and a brother.

Separated in Infancy.

"We were separated when my parents died. I was in infancy and grew to manhood without knowing of their existence, and they, no doubt, thought I had died. Think of it. They are coming to America and in a fortnight we shall be reunited. I am going to New York next week to meet them at the steamer. They are coming from the same town in Austria where the Zelgers lived."

Mr. Pappernak left for New York on May 4. On the day of his leaving Mr. Price asked him to go to his home in New York, where his family still remains, and get a framed diploma which he desired to hang in his oculist's office. On Saturday, May 6, Mr. Price's wife wrote that Mr. Pappernak had called at her home for the diploma, and upon leaving said it would be necessary for him to return to Pittsburgh not later than Thursday.

This is the last heard from Mr. Pappernak, and Mr. Price is convinced he must have met young Zelger in New York and both started to Pittsburgh on the ill-fated train.

Communicated With the Officials.

Last night Mr. Price communicated with the railroad authorities at Harrisburg, asking if they had found any trace of the diploma or the frame. If this is found, it will be convincing proof that the unfortunate man is among the unknown dead, and further steps will be taken toward his identification. Charles Zelger, a brother of George Zelger, stated last night he did not know Pappernak personally, but that a similar name sounded familiar among his brother's list of acquaintances.

The remains of Frank W. Anderson, who died early yesterday morning in the Harrisburg hospital, were brought to his home in Homer street last night, accompanied by his widow. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made. John W. Anderson, superintendent of th Carbon Steel Company, and the father of the young man who was injured in the wreck, is in a critical condition at Harrisburg.

Married But a Few Months.

The death of Mr. Anderson was surrounded by pathetic circumstances. At his bedside were his mother and his bride of only a few months. His father, who had received perhaps mortal injuries in the disaster, lay on an adjoining cot. The father had watched over the boy until loved ones from home reached him, and then his condition, too, became more serious. The shock of the young man's death caused Mr. Anderson to suffer a relapse, and telephone messages from Harrisburg last night were to the effect that the physicians despaired of saving his life.

Frank Wesley Anderson was born in Pittsburgh 25 years ago. He attended Park institute, Allegheny, but left school while still a youth to begin his business career. Scarcely before he attained his majority he became a broker in steel and was singularly successful. Last October he married Miss Bertha Lotz and established his home at 5536 Homer street.

Member of the Masonic Order.

He was a member of several secret societies and was affiliated with the Masonic order. He attended churches of the Methodist Episcopal denomination, having been a member of the North Avenue church previous to his marriage. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Anderson, and three brothers, John W., Charles E. and Robert Wilson Anderson.

Word was received here last night that George O. Loeffler, chemist for the Carbon Steel Company, could scarcely survive. The Loeffler home at 5185 Woodworth avenue is closed and his family is at his bedside. Mr. Loeffler, with Messrs. Bright and Crabbe and Mr. Anderson and his son, were in New York attending a lawsuit. On their homeward journey they occupied adjoining berths in the Pullman car which was nearest the dynamite explosions.

An immense throng yesterday afternoon attended the funeral of George Zeiger, one of the Pittsburgh victims of Thursday's disaster. The services were held in the home of Mr. Zeiger's brother, Charles Zeiger, at 6722 Howe street, the burial ritual being read by Rabbi Michael Fried. The Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy pronounced the eulogy.

Might Prevent a Repetition.

Dr. Levy dwelt upon the uncertainty of human life and cited the present instance as an example of death's relentless stroke. Serious accidents like the Harrisburg disaster, judging by its probable causes and consequences, Dr. Levy said, might be transformed into a blessing if they could result in a means of preventing a repetition of such calamities. Dr. Levy spoke of the grief which Mr. Zeiger's family suffered with a host of their neighbors in Pittsburgh, and referred to the fortitude the young man had shown in the midst of the most excruciating physical anguish.

The Jewish order of B'nai B'rith attended the funeral in a body and had charge of the services, together with a delegation from the recently organized fraternal organization, "The Homeless 28," of which Mr. Zeiger was a charter member and the first to be called away by death. The interment was made in the McKees Rocks cemetery. The drawing-room where the casket reposed during the services was a veritable bower of flowers and evergreens, tokens from Mr. Zeiger's friends and former business associates.

Col. H. P. Bope and his family arrived from Harrisburg in a private car last night on train No. 25. When he reached his home in Negley avenue he stated that he felt much improved and none the worse for his journey across the mountains. Charles Donnelly and the other Pittsburgh victims are rapidly recovering their former health.

HARRISBURG, May 14. — George Griswold of Pittsburgh, who is at a private residence with a nurse, will be able to leave for his home in 10 days. His brother, whose home is at Rochester, N. Y., was here with him today. W. E. McMillan, another Pittsburgher, was much brighter today and his parents, who are at the hospital with him, hope to take him home in a few days. Dr. Bingham, a New York surgeon, was here today to see George Sullivan of that city, who was burned all over the body. Mr. Sullivan holds a responsible position in the export department of the United States Steel Corporation, which has notified the hospital managers to spare no expense to make him comfortable.

The railroad officials have learned that no such person as "Mr. Shaw of Pittsburgh" was killed in the wreck, which makes the number of the dead 22 instead of 23. One of the hospital physicians in a mistake notified the railroad on the day of the wreck that such a person had died, and an investigation since made shows how the mistake occurred.

Four additional nurses came here from Philadelphia to assist the regular nurses at the hospital, some of whom are almost completely exhausted from overwork. The hospital is too small to house the extra nurses and they are staying with private families in the neighborhood. Everything possible is being done by the railroad company for the comfort of the injured and their friends who are with them.

A trusted official of the company is kept at the hospital constantly to see to their wants.

LITTLE HEROINE OF THE WRECK

Helen Yard, Eleven Months Old, Is Saved With Her Mother and Never Whimpers.

HER RESCUER IS UNKNOWN

When little Helen Yard looked up from the ground the other night, she was too young to comprehend the harrowing scenes of the railroad wreck enacting about her. A few feet away her mother and grandmother lay prone in the oozy mud of the Susquehanna river, under the roots of a willow tree. Little Helen herself was on her back while over her, protecting her with his body, crouched a young man, a stranger on his elbows and knees. The air was filled with flames and smoke. There was an explosion and heavy fragments of the Pullman cars and all sorts of missiles fell thickly about them. At any moment all but little Helen might have been killed. She was well protected by the unselfish stranger.

Helen was none the worse for her experience in the Pennsylvania wreck at Harrisburg. She and her mother, Mrs. H. C. Yard, and her mother's mother, Mrs. C. B. Stow, are now at the home of HELEN YARD.

Baby Heroine of the Harrisburg Wreck.

John E. Whittlesey, 211 South Lang avenue, Mr. Whittlesey's wife being the daughter of Mrs. Stow and a sister of Mrs. Yard. They were coming on a visit to the Whittleseys and were on the ill-fated train. Mrs. Yard was badly cut about the body and Mrs. Stow was bruised and cut. Helen had not a scratch. She was 11 months old on May 11, the day of the accident.

Mother Instinct First.

Mrs. Stow, her daughter and granddaughter were in a lower berth of the third Pullman sleeper. When the shock came Mrs. Yard was rolled into the aisle. As she lay there a man hurrying out of the car jumped over her body as he ran. She gathered herself up, and crying to her mother to hurry, snatched up the baby and started to get out of the window of the opposite berth, following its occupants, whom she saw disappearing. Realizing she could not get out of the window with the baby, she made for the platform, still calling to her mother. She cried to a man behind her to save her baby, but he pushed her violently aside and ran out.

Mrs. Yard finally reached the platform. Through the smoke she saw a man disappearing downward and she realized that the embankment was only a few feet from the track. She waited until her mother came out, and then, because of the baby, worked herself slowly down the 40-foot embankment, lacerating her body on the slag and clinkers of which the embankment is made. Mrs. Stow crawled down on her hands and knees.

At the foot of the embankment they saw numbers of wounded men and women lying about moaning. They pushed on until they came to the river, warned of its nearness by seeing a woman staggering into the water, whence she was pulled with some difficulty by her husband. All this time the gas tanks of the Pullman cars were bursting. They could hear the splash of the fragments of the cars falling into the water, and now and then the thud of a hard body striking the ground close by.

Helen Was the Heroine.

At this point a young man forced Mrs. Yard to give up the baby to him. He ordered the two women to get down on their faces and to crawl under the willow roots as far as possible. From where they lay they saw the young man place the baby on the ground, and then crouch over the child on his knees and elbows. Mrs. Stow saw the Pullman cars burn up one by one, the car from which she escaped having taken fire before she had reached the foot of the embankment.

After the bombardment ceased the passengers gathered at the river's walked along the river bank, ascended the embankment and took refuge in a fisherman's hut. The men had just come in from their work. They had a big fire burning and before it scores of passengers gathered. The fishermen bustled about hunting covering for the women, and some of them took off their own shoes and forced them on barefooted men. One of the hosts went away, and after a while returned with the wives of several of the fishermen. The women brought waists, skirts, shoes and anything that might be of use to the female passengers, and pressed the articles hospitably upon them.

At the hospital Helen was the heroine. The Harrisburg women who had gathered to do what they could for the wounded, insisted upon taking the child in their arms and petting it. There was so much distress in the hospital, with the bustling of the doctors and nurses and the moans of the wounded, that finally Mrs. Benjamin Drake insisted upon Mrs. Stow, her daughter and the baby going to the Drake home, after the wounds of the two women had been dressed.

Blinked and Then Smiled.

There they were hospitably entertained until able to come to Pittsburgh, in an outfit of clothes provided by the railroad company. On the same train were a score of women, all wearing clothes which the railroad company had furnished, for they had been able to save nothing.

"Did you learn the name of the man who covered your baby with his body while the missiles were falling?" Mrs. Yard was asked.

"No," she replied. "I did not learn his name. But I read in a paper that a Mr. J. M. Brainerd merely mentioned he had helped two women and a baby. I am not sure it was he who so bravely volunteered to protect Helen from harm, but if it was he, then his modesty in not telling what he really did is on a par with the bravery of the act. He might have hurried away and left us to our fate."

And how did Helen Yard behave during the trying time? From the time her mother snatched her out of the berth until she was taken into the circle of firelight at the fishermen's hut, she never opened her lips. Once under shelter she gave a little cry, but her mother sat her up. Then she blinked at the fire, smiled at those huddled about and wanted to play.

BED CONCEALS STOUT LADY.

Some Side Lights on Arrest of Mrs. Masterson.

Fanny Masterson, a colored woman who weighs little short of 300 pounds, was arrested last night while hiding under a bed at 1116 Bedford avenue. In order to get her out Policemen McCready and Hughes were obliged to lift the bed off the buxom woman it concealed. How she got there is a mystery that has not been solved.

Mrs. Masterson said she was a widow and 31 years of age. She is alleged to have stolen $100 from Edward Rayback of Jefferson county, who came to town last week and visited at a house in Water street, where Mrs. Masterson likewise was stopping. Another colored woman was arrested for the same theft, but Mrs. Masterson is alleged to have been the one that got the money.

Child Mysteriously Killed.

GREENSBURG, May 14.—(Special.)—The 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. Teresa Macieo, of Mt. Pleasant, while taking care of a younger brother, was killed by a bullet fired from a revolver afterwards found on the floor. The mother cannot account for the shooting.

CITY WILL TAKE BULK OF BONDS

Sinking Fund Commission to Buy $1,400,000 of Filtration Securities.

BIG SAVING IN INTEREST

Controller Larkin will today send out a circular letter to bankers and bond buyers notifying them that the city has only $600,000 of filtration bonds to sell on June 1, and that the remainder of the bond issue of $2,000,000, to be issued on that date, will be taken by the sinking fund commission of the city. This makes $1,400,000 that the sinking fund commission will take and the amount on which the city will save interest.

If the whole amount of the $2,000,000 issue had gone to outside buyers, instead of being taken by the city, the city would have not only have had to pay them the interest instead of receiving the interest itself, but the city depositories would have obtained the use of $1,400,000 more than they get under the present arrangement.

The $1,400,000 which the sinking fund commission will pay for the bonds will not be new cash for the city depositories, because it is now lying in the depositories. If outside parties had secured all the bonds, this cash would have been turned into the city depositories. Controller Larkin expects the sinking fund commission also to take a large part of the next year's bond issue of $2,000,000 for filtration.

"The city sinking fund commission has arranged to take about two-thirds of the first issue of $2,000,000 of filtration bonds which are to be sold this month," said Assistant Controller E. S. Morrow, secretary of the sinking fund commission, yesterday.

"Controller Larkin would not agree to an issue of $2,000,000 the first year, in view of the fact that there was already over $2,000,000 in the city depositories from the last filtration bond issue, until he learned that the sinking fund commission could take the biggest part of the bonds. The bonds will be issued some time between now and the first of June, just as soon as the pamphlets for distribution among the prospective bond buyers are ready and the advertisements for bids have been inserted."

It is stated that the city administration at first insisted upon all the bonds being sold to one person or firm, which would have forced the entire issue upon a bidder outside of the sinking fund commission.

Assistant Controller Morrow figures that the sinking fund commission can take about $1,400,000 of the $2,000,000 of bonds to be sold this month. The bonds will bear 3½ per cent interest and the sinking fund commission will secure the bonds without paying a premium, this being a gain for the city. The city sinking fund commission has been a heavy purchaser of city bonds for years. The buyers of the remaining one-third portion of the issue will have to pay the usual market premium, this being the basis for the bidding. The sinking fund commission will be exempt from paying the premium and the annual interest of 3½ per cent will go towards swelling the general fund of the commission and the city will thus save a large amount of interest every year that would otherwise go to outside investors.

Councils have authorized an issue of $2,000,000 worth of bonds this year, on or before the first of June, $2,000,000 next year and $1,000,00 the year following, making a total issue of $5,000,000, which is to be added to about $2,200,000 now in the city depositories from the issue of $2,500,000 of filtration bonds in 1900, making a net bond issue of $7,500,000 to give Pittsburgh a pure water supply.

WILL WORK IN THE MILL.

Young Librarian Will Turn from Books to Learn of the Mysteries of Armor Plate.

Charles L. Cummings, who for more than a year has been in charge of the Buhl library at Sharon, as well as superintendent of the clubhouse which is a part of the library, this morning will take a position in the armor plate department of the mills at Homestead. For a number of years Mr. Cummings has been identified with libraries in this vicinity, and bore the distinction of being the youngest librarian in charge of an important institution in the country. He is a graduate of the Albany library school and began his career as a librarian 10 years ago under Edward H. Anderson at Braddock. He was first assistant in that institution under Walter Crane and went to Sharon soon after the appointment of Prof. George H. Lamb to be the head of the Braddock institution.

All of Mr. Cummings' life has been passed among books, and his advent into the steel business is a most decided departure. It was brought about through the influence of an official high in the counsels of the Carnegie Steel Company, who, in addition to a promise of remuneration almost equal to what he had been getting, also promised him some recreation, something which the young librarian has seldom enjoyed.

Next month Mr. Cummings will wed a young lady from Patterson, N. J., and he was heard to remark recently that matrimony and the work of a librarian are not compatible, the latter requiring too much absence from home. Mr. Cummings is a member of several of Braddock's social clubs, is a Mason and a member of Calvary Presbyterian church. His friends predict for him as much success in the mills as he has had among his books.

ARCHBISHOP GLENNON RECEIVES PALLIUM

The Ceremony Takes Place in the Old Cathedral at St. Louis—Cardinal Gibbons Officiates.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, May 14.—In the presence of a notable gathering of Catholic church dignitaries, the paillum, the official insignia of an archbishop, was bestowed today on John Joseph Glennon, archbishop of the archdiocese of St. Louis.

The ceremony took place in the old cathedral. Preceded by six pages, the ecclesiastical procession entered the cathedral by the main door and passed down the main aisle to the sanctuary, to the right of which was the red throne for Cardinal Gibbons, and directly opposite the purple, white and gold throne occupied by Archbishop Glennon.

Mass was celebrated by Archbishop Glennon and immediately after the communion the pallium was bestowed by Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Glennon repeating the oath of office in Latin. Archbishop Glennon then pronounced the benediction. The sermon was preached by Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul.

Among the visiting prelates who took part in the ceremony were: Archbishop Quigley of Chicago, Bishop Farley of Detroit, Bishop Stanley of Fargo, Bishop Lellis of Leavenworth, Bishop Hennessy of Wichita, Bishop Burke of St. Joseph, Bishop Horstman of Cleveland, Bishop Allen of Mobile and Bishop Dunne of Dallas.

ROBERT RALSTON IS REFLECTING

Sorry He Tried to Fool His Alleged Mother-in-Law and Bluff His Wife.

THINKS IT OVER IN JAIL

Robert Ralston, while he sits in a prison cell, has much time to reflect upon the foolhardiness of an attempt to mislead the woman who thought she was his mother-in-law. He has also proof that he has a wife who will not be bluffed. Unless there is a softening of hearts, the period of reflection will probably be lengthened into years.

Ralston came over from Cleveland several months ago. In the Forest city he was a bank clerk and sought to duplicate the job here. While looking for a berth it was decided to leave his young wife in Cleveland. Weeks lengthened into months and Mrs. Ralston thought it strange she was not invited to join her husband in his new home. She planned a surprise, and it was a real one.

The young bank clerk did not find an opening for him in Pittsburgh, so he filled in the time by making love to the daughter of Mrs. L. K. White, who formerly lived in the Oakland district. One day Mrs. White was given to understand that Ralston was her son-in-law.

The other day Mrs. Ralston came over from Cleveland. She learned the address of her husband, but did not give him notice of her coming. When she arrived at the home the couple were occupying in Penn avenue, she found them together.

The original Mrs. Ralston demanded an explanation. Ralston denied knowing the woman, believing that a strong bluff would carry him safely through. Wife No. 1 stood her ground, and put this query:

"Do you mean to say that I am not your wife?"

Ralston replied, as he caressed No. 2, "Certainly. This is my wife."

No. 1 then addressed this question to No. 2:

"Are you his wife?"

There was a rather feeble "Yes," and then the first Mrs. Ralston announced she had made out her case. From out of a handbag she fished Exhibit A in the form of a marriage certificate, showing she had been tightly tied to Robert Ralston. She remarked that an alderman would be found and her wedding present would be a warrant charging bigamy.

Wife No. 2 wilted and announced that she had never been married to Robert Ralston.

Mrs. Ralston had been accompanied to Pittsburgh by Mrs. White, who now lives in Beaver Falls. The Cleveland woman had learned her address and had gone to her in her trouble. Mrs. White says her daughter's name is Mrs. Frances Meyers and that she is a widow. On hearing her daughter's denial of a marriage she at once took a hand in the game. Addressing her daughter she said:

"If you are not married I will have Robert arrested."

Mrs. White hurried to the office of Magistrate Negley. He found a charge to fit the case and Robert is now in jail, being unable to secure $500 bail. He will have a hearing today and the testimony will be interesting.

CRAWLS UNDER TRAIN AND MEETS FATAL INJURY

Braddock Resident Loses Both Legs and Dies from Shock—Allegheny Man's Sudden Death.

Olaf Sanders, aged 45, was run over by a freight train on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad at Seventh street, Braddock, at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon while he was trying to crawl under the train. Both his legs were crushed and he died at the McKeesport hospital at 3 o'clock. Mr. Sanders conducted a tailor shop at 865 Washington avenue, Braddock. He was born in Sweden and went to Braddock 14 years ago. He was a member of the Scandinavian Brotherhood and the Swedish Lutheran church of Braddock. His widow and four children survive.

Arthur Colt, aged 45, of Hutson street, Allegheny, was found unconscious last evening by Mrs. Mary O'Connelly in the stable of Joseph Brittain, Grand avenue, Allegheny. Colt entered the stable during the afternoon and said he was suffering from cramps. He lay down in a stall and later was found dead. It is thought death was caused by heart disease and consumption. After being found unconscious in the stable Brittain telephoned for a patrol wagon, but Colt died before it arrived. Colt's mother is said to live in Sherman avenue, Allegheny.

William W. Sellers, aged 32, of Cherry street, Sheraden, died at the Mercy hospital yesterday from injuries received by falling off a box car in the Sheraden yards, of the Panhandle railroad, May 8. A car was shifting in the siding and when it struck the car Sellers was on he was knocked off and was injured internally.

The inquest was held yesterday in the death of Andrew Toth, who committed suicide at his home at Douglass, Elizabeth township, Saturday, by hanging himself. It is said he attempted to commit suicide three weeks ago by taking insect powder. A verdict of suicide while insane was rendered by the jury. He had been ill for over a year, and was despondent because he was unable to work. He was a miner.

GREAT STORM DESTROYS THE AUTOBOAT FLEET

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

TOULON, May 14.—The autoboat race from Algiers to Toulon has ended unfortunately, all of the boats participating in the second stage of the run from Port Mahon to this port being either sunk or disabled owing to a heavy storm when still many miles from the finish. The arrangements for escorting the craft, however, were efficiently organized, and so far as known there has been no loss of life.

The seven racers left Port Mahon yesterday morning at 4 o'clock for Toulon. A torpedo boat destroyer accompanied each autoboat, while two cruisers followed. The sea was somewhat rough at the start and soon became worse. The competing boats were unable to withstand the violence of the storm and requested the warships to tow them. Shortly afterward the Mercedes C. P. sank and men from the torpedo boat destroyer Hallebarde rescued her crew. The cruiser LaHire hoisted the F. I. A. T. and her crew aboard. The Camelle was abandoned, the destroyer Dard saving her crew. The Heracles II. is adrift but her crew is on board the destroyer Sarbacane. The Maigre Tout sank and her crew was taken on board the destroyer Carabine. The Mercedes-Mercedes had to be abandoned, the destroyer Fertrusane saving the crew.

There is no news concerning the Quand-Meme, about which there is considerable anxiety. Her crew consists of 7 men, including the Duke Decazes. The cruisers Desaix and Kleber are searching for the vessel.

Accounts furnished by officers of destroyers which have arrived here with the wrecked autoboats' crews show that the storm which overtook the frail craft shortly after their departure from Port Antion was of terrible intensity, the waves attaining a height of 235 feet. It was impossible to keep the flotilla in tow, steel hawsers breaking repeatedly owing to the sea's fury, the destroyers themselves being in imminent danger.

Superintendent Against Fraternities

After appealing in vain to the boys and girls of the McKeesport high school, Dr. J. B. Richey, superintendent, has decided to bring the matter of fraternities in the school to the attention of the board of school controllers in his annual report, which will be read at a meeting of the board in the near future. Dr. Richey declared that fraternities are a hindrance to education, and a pupil in the junior class acknowledged that out of a class of 40 two years ago there were now only 10. Most of these quit shortly before the end of the term for the reason that they would fail to pass and would have to spend a second term in the junior class.

TAKES A RAP AT J. D. CRIMMINS

Frank H. Platt Says E. H. Harriman Influenced His Change of Heart.

FIGHTING FOR ALEXANDER

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, May 14.

Frank H. Platt today admitted the charge made by James H. Hyde that the policy-holders' protective committee, of which Mr. Platt is chief counsel, was formed for the particular purpose of supporting the Alexander faction in the fight for control of the Equitable Life Assurance society. Mr. Platt took occasion to rap John D. Crimmins for deserting the committee, of which he was chairman, and going over to the Hyde camp. He declared that E. H. Harriman's influence was probably responsible for Mr. Crimmins' change of heart.

"Soon after the Equitable's board of directors adopted the resolution to amend the society's charter so that the policy-holders could have representation in the board," said Mr. Platt, "it became evident that Mr. Hyde was seeking to thwart the object of the resolution. Thereupon the policy-holders' committee was formed to support Mr. Alexander in his position.

"The members of the committee have all been faithful to that purpose with the exception of Mr. Crimmins. At first no one was more earnest than he. When the deceptive four-year plan was announced Mr. Crimmins spoke against it, taking the ground that Mr. Hyde wanted to continue his control of the company.

"Soon after this Mr. Crimmins had several private conferences with E. H. Harriman, and suddenly came out for Mr. Hyde. Thereafter he could see nothing but advantage to the policy-holders in stock control."

It was learned today that Mr. Hyde's friends have recently investigated the record of Gage E. Tarbell during his alleged connection with the Gogebic Iron Mining Company during the mining excitement from 1885 to 1888 in Chicago. Two men, giving the names of A. D. Wales and M. Lane of New York, have had several conferences in Chicago with John E. Burton of that city, who used to be an Equitable agent there, and who left the society's employ to go into the mining business with Mr. Tarbell. It is stated that before Mr. Burton would open his books for the inspection of the men who are supposed to be acting in the interests of Mr. Hyde, an agreement was signed stating that he would be protected.

BURGLARY AND A SCARE.

Thieves Enter One House and Secure Plunder, but Another Alarm Is Without Foundation.

Thieves entered the residence of W. J. Griffin, 5200 Centre avenue, early Saturday morning, and stole a $75 gold watch and a pair of trousers containing $25. Saturday night Officer Lewis Stanton arrested Ernest Johnson, a negro, of Hillside street, who is suspected of having committed the theft.

About 9:15 o'clock last night a telephone message was received by the Oakland police stating that there were burglars in the house of George Gardner on Brooks street. Inspector Bailey and Capt. Emmett mounted bicycles and raced for the house. When they arrived they found the policeman on the beat and a fireman from Engine house 24 were investigating. The officers entered the kitchen door and found a Hungarian calling upon his girl. While the officers were searching the house Bicycle Policeman Jackson came up, and a woman from across the street pointed to a man who was standing near the house, and said:

"There is one of the burglars."

The officer placed the man in charge of a fireman and assisted in the search of the house. No person being discovered, the officers returned to the street, where it was learned that the man detained in front of the house as a robber, was Mr. Gardner, who lived in the house.

BEAVER TICKET NAMED.

J. Rankin Martin Is Nominated for President Judge—County Commissioners' Contest Close.

BEAVER, PA., May 14.—(Special.)—J. Rankin Martin was nominated for president judge of Beaver county at the Republican primaries yesterday by a majority of about 700 over Richard S. Holt. This majority does not include the vote at Ambridge, where two polls were opened by friends of rival candidates and where Martin received a majority of about 450. When the county committee meets tomorrow they will decide if the Ambridge votes shall be counted. This vote will not affect the nomination for judge but may affect the result on some of the other candidates.

With four-fifths of the returns in A. G. Harvey for treasurer seems to have a majority of 1,000 over C. C. Rauscher; for register and recorder the present incumbent, J. S. Mitchell, is nominated over J. R. Patterson by 900. For sheriff William L. Peacock will lead the field of five candidates by about 500. Clerk of Courts John H. Sturgeon is renominated by 800 majority. The official count may be necessary to determine the vote on county commissioners.

Says Holiday Is Healthful.

C. L. Thurgood, pastor of the Central Christian church, addressed the United Labor league last night, at its headquarters in Smithfield street, on the subject of the "Saturday Half-Holiday." The address was particularly appropriate, as the league purposes to inaugurate a movement to install the Saturday half-holiday, hoping to make it an institution, like in England, where banks, stores and shops close on Saturday afternoon. In summer the holiday is a great occasion for picnics and excursions to the country.

reduction in the cost of traction and better utilization of rolling stock, and the smaller extent of station installations required, it will be possible materially to reduce the cost of working lines with little traffic, and will in the cases of other lines, result in a material improvement in the working of some classes of service. Two parties of foreign delegates to the congress left Washington tonight on tours of the United States. The parties include about 300 delegates and occupy four special trains. One party will reach New York on May 23, after having visited Altoona, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Schenectady and Boston. Railway Men Not Displeased.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Ambassador Jusserand of France, speaking on behalf of French delegates to the international railway congress, today expressed deep regret over a rumor that his countrymen were displeased by the injection of a discussion of the railroad rate question in the social functions attendant upon the congress. He has taken occasion to confer with all of the delegates from France and has learned that the discussion between Secretary Taft and Stuyvesant Fish, president of the Illinois Central railroad, evoked their keen interest. They were impressed particularly by the freedom with which questions of the character are discussed in America.

McBride in Oil Company.

Their well is still producing 40 and 50 barrels hourly. Thomas Frazier has leased 25 acres of the McCouaell farm and 25 acres from David McGowan.

Excursions Are Popular.

A good many excursionists came in on the railroads yesterday, and many of them visited the zoological garden in Highland park. The Baltimore & Ohio brought 526 excursionists from as far as Morgantown, W. Va., and about 250 persons went from Pittsburgh on the excursion to Wheeling.

CONGREGATION VOTES TO SELL

Second Methodist Protestant Church Desires to Build New Edifice in Oakland.

PASTOR WISHES TO RESIGN

At the congregational meeting of the Second Methodist Protestant church, Fifth avenue, near Marion street, held yesterday morning, it was unanimously agreed to sell the church property and move into the Oakland district. A communication was read from the pastor, the Rev. I. A. Barnes, asking that his name be not presented for election for the coming year, and a communication was read from the First Congregational church of Dithridge street asking that the congregation consider consolidating with them.

Following the vote to sell the church property a recommendation was made that the board of trustees call a meeting of the charter members to take a final vote on the project. This step is necessary, because the church is incorporated. The meeting yesterday represented both the men and women of the congregation, and as the vote was unanimous there is no question but that the incorporators, voting by themselves, will take the same action.

The property has a frontage of 75 feet in Fifth avenue and runs back 100 feet to Ann street.

Await the Hump Cut.

Nathan Jones, who presided at the meeting yesterday, stated that the property would not be placed upon the market until the vote on cutting the hump is taken in July. He says the congregation will not sell for less than $125,000 and can afford to await that price.

The congregation has secured an option on a desirable lot in the Oakland district, but its location was not made public. The present church building was erected 48 years ago and the congregation is 52 years old.

The action of the pastor, the Rev. I. A. Barnes, in asking that his name not be considered for re-election, is a repetition of a step taken by him last year. At that time the congregation was not able to secure the pastor they had called and pressure was brought to have Mr. Barnes remain. It is believed that Mr. Barnes is considering a call to Ohio. A committee has been appointed by the congregation on pastoral relations, and it is said that negotiations are on for the services of one of the leading clergymen in the denomination. The term of the present pastor expires on September 1.

Move Toward Unification.

The First Congregational church, in asking the Second Methodist Protestant church to consolidate with it, is acting in sympathy with the negotiations now on by the governing bodies of the Methodist Protestant, Congregational and United Brethren church in an effort toward unification. The First church has just erected an $80,000 edifice in Dithridge street, having sold its old church at Washington street and Fifth avenue last winter for $90,000. Out of courtesy to the Congregational church, the Second Methodist Protestant church has appointed a committee of five to confer with a like committee of the Congregational church on union.

The Methodist Protestant congregation does not favor the project, however, for several reasons. To unite with another denomination before the governing bodies have united, would mean seceding from the denomination, which, under the church law, would mean that the property of the congregation would revert to the governing body of the denomination. The Second Methodist Protestant church, by sentiment expressed at the meeting yesterday, is anxious to retain its identity, and to this particular end is desirous of locating and establishing itself in a new and efficient building before the proposed unification of the three denominations is accomplished.

City Treasury Is Enriched.

At midnight Saturday Police Inspector R. H. Robinson, Capt. Thomas McCabe and a wagon load of officers went out Second avenue, near the Tenth street bridge, where they made a raid on four disorderly houses and corralled 81 men and women. The proprietors of the houses were Fanny Lewis of 938, Annie Fine of 940, Emma Rich of 942, and Sadie Stein of 944, all of whom were fined $100 and costs at the hearing in Central station yesterday morning, which all of them paid. In the several houses there were 20 women and these were fined $25 and costs each, which they paid, and the 57 men were fined $1 and costs.

Preaches a Trial Sermon.

The Rev. Grant Lauderbaugh of Oswego, N. Y., preached to the First Baptist congregation, Braddock, yesterday. He is one of the candidates for the pulpit which was made vacant last February by the resignation of Rev. George T. Street. He is the second candidate who has preached a trial sermon. The election of a pastor will probably take place in June.

Will Investigate Their Cases.

Hazel Belmont, a negress, charged with stealing $160 from a man, and James Lyles, who is alleged to have stolen clothes and money from a house in Roberts street, were at the Central station hearings yesterday morning and their cases were held over. The cases will be investigated.

COMBINE TO GIVE MOORE A BUMP

Fight Over Engine House Site Comes Up in Select Council Today.

SPECIAL MEETING IS CALLED

An organization is being quietly effected in select council to give Director Moore a "bump" this afternoon. A special meeting of the upper branch of the city councils is called to meet this afternoon to transact business passed upon by common council on Friday night and to attend to matters pending in select. Among the latter is an ordinance providing for the purchase of an engine house site in the Eighteenth ward.

This ordinance has caused a split of the councilmen and political factions in the ward, Director Moore and the city administration siding with the faction that is booming one site for the engine house, and the other faction endeavoring to secure another site. The ordinance pending in select council authorizes the purchase of two lots at Stanton avenue and Hawthorne street for $4,000.

This is the site selected by Common Councilman A. M. Barr of the Eighteenth ward and approved by the city administration, particularly by Director Moore. Select Councilman S. J. Wainwright, Jr., of the Eighteenth ward, is working for another site, in Chislett street in the Morningside district, and he is lining up members of the upper branch to defeat Director Moore's bill today. The ordinance has been reported from the public safety committee and is expected to come up today in unfinished business.

It was substituted in the public safety committee for the original bill, introduced by Mr. Wainwright, for the purchase of the Chislett street site. Mr. Wainwright wants the Moore bill sent to a special committee, there to remain in state of innocuous desuetude until the expiration of councils.

The two sites are in widely separated districts of the ward. The one site advocated lies in the Morningside district near the Allegheny river and the other lies on the hill top, nearly a mile away. The Chislett street site is priced at $2,800 and is $1,200 cheaper than the other.

"Mayor Hays, Chief Humphreys, Councilman Barr and myself inspected both sites," said Director Moore yesterday, "and it would be a great wrong to the ward to take the site in Chislett street. It would benefit only one section of the ward, because the engine company could not make good time getting to the top of the hill above Morningside, while the company, if stationed on the hill, could cover that district, which is rapidly growing, and could also reach the Morningside district in quick time by going down the hill."

Select council has been called for this afternoon chiefly to pass the ordinance creating 69 additional positions in the bureau of filtration. A. G. Roenigk's artesian well ordinance will also come up for action, but there is said to be opposition to it in the upper branch. There are members who doubt that Director Bigelow sincerely desires the passage of the artesian well bill and predict that it will not receive the unqualified support of all the Bigelow members today. Besides these measures there are a large number of street improvement bills, messaged from common council, to be passed.

Uses Razor on His Opponent.

John Delp of 680 O'Hara street, Allegheny, is at the Allegheny hospital suffering from deep razor cuts across the face and in the palm of his right hand. Late Saturday night Delp and William Bucher of 30 Vista street, Allegheny, had a fight at Chestnut and O'Hara streets, and it is alleged Bucher used his razor on Delp. Bucher was arrested and locked in Allegheny Central station, where he will be held pending the result of Delp's injuries.

PIANO RECITAL.

The distinguished piano player, Prof. Severin O. Frank, has been secured by the Horne-Stewart Company to give a recital on the third floor of their store, on Monday afternoon, May 15, between the hours of 2 and 4.

Prof. Frank is a native of Germany, but has lived in this country for several years. A short time ago he returned from England and Scotland and has been located since then in Pittsburgh. When quite young he commenced to play the piano and at 15 years of age he was considered a wonder. He studied under Morris Rosenthal at Vienna, and later gave concerts at Berlin, Vienna, Russia, Holland and other places. In 1898 he played before the Russian Crown Prince George, a brother of the czar, at Moscow. In 1899 he returned to this country and was professor at the Grand Conservatory, New York city. He has many testimonials and is considered one of the finest piano players in the world today.

We feel this is giving our customers an opportunity for a real treat, and we know that those who attend will be more than amply repaid.

The program which Prof. Frank has arranged is an especially brilliant one and will be sure to please the lovers of piano music. Several numbers that will be rendered are seldom heard in this country, on account of their extreme difficulty of rendition. The piano used is a Steinway concert grand, kindly furnished by C. C. Mellor & Co., city.

Furniture for Greatly Reduced Prices.

On Saturday evening we gave a rather comprehensive account of the furniture we intend offering today for, we may say, an average of half prices.

In connection with this news we also told of drapery stuffs that will be on sale in the Fifth Floor Furniture Department, also for an average of half prices.

In the matter of furniture, if you stand in need of chairs and rockers, tables, bedroom and parlor furniture, writing desks, settees and decorative pieces, we have only to say that it is scarcely probable such another opportunity will be given to buy high grade articles of furniture for prices commonly charged for the most inferior grades.

Again, if you would like to invest in high-class drapery materials, such as tapestries, armures, various kinds of furniture coverings, drapery silks, etc., you can come to this department today and buy them for very small prices.

We have a lot of manufacturers' samples—pieces large enough for chair, pillow or cushion covers—tapestries, cretonnes, silk damasks, plushes, linens, etc.—that we will sell as follows: Lot 1, 5c and 10c each; Lot 2, 15c and 25c each; Lot 3, 50c each.

Monday, May 15, 1905.

Roosevelt is probably the only city of 3,000 population in the world that can foresee its ultimate fate. In the case of this town it will not be long to wait for the denouement. In three years the site where it stands will be submerged under 170 feet of water. The town will give way to a great dam for irrigation purposes, so its disappearance will be a benefit to humanity.

The experts of the treasury department have been figuring upon the effect of the new German tariff and in the first 12 items examined they find that about $40,000,000 of our present exports to Germany will be subject to much higher duties than similar exports from seven nations with which Germany has reciprocity treaties. This sort of thing is upsetting the standpat policy, as it is plain that something will have to be done to meet the new conditions or our commerce will be hard hit.

There is no rush for government jobs at Panama now. Since yellow fever carried off a few officials the rush is just the other way. The present flight of government employes shows that there is a state of panic and the stories of the refugees will create the impression that conditions are worse than they are. Sanitary work has not been as effective as has been expected, but what was done at Havana can be done at the isthmus, and Dr. Gorgas will get Yellow Jack under yet.

Reports from Leigh Hunt, who took a colony of 12 negroes to the Soudan to raise cotton, are that they are well pleased with the country. They are also succeeding in their work of scientific cotton raising so the number will soon be more than doubled by another delegation from Booker Washington's Tuskeegee school. The experiences of this colony differ from those of others working in Africa, but they are not widely separated. The Soudan colony, moreover, enjoys the benefit of the practical training acquired in this country.

Reports emanating from Washington allege that intimations have been given by both Russia and Japan that the time is ripe to secure peace. These reports represent President Roosevelt as the hope of the belligerents and assert that he is expected to do something. While peace would be welcomed by America, and there is reason to believe President Roosevelt would be glad to forward that end, it will not be wise to accept these reports too confidingly. There is no more reason now why either of the belligerents should be seeking peace than two months ago.

It is said that James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, will be a candidate for the Republican nomination to congress from Cleveland next year, as there is a determination not to re-elect Congressman Beidler, who was active in the selection of material for the new postoffice in that city. Mr. Garfield has been popular in his home town, and should he wish to take an elective office instead of the appointive one he now holds, could probably have a chance. President Garfield's sons do not seem to have suffered from the publicity of their life at the White house, and are both doing excellent work.

In the call for contributions to the pure milk fund is a reminder of the approach of a season of danger to infants. It is probable the terrible mortality among children under three years of age is appreciated by few outside the medical profession. The doctors, too, are first to appreciate the relation of food to this mortality. Tainted or impure milk is one of the principal causes of infant diseases, so that absolute cleanliness of vessels and purity of milk are essential to infant health. At the first sign of disease, however, milk should be discontinued for a few days and pure water substituted in which has been whipped the white of an egg, a small quantity being given every few minutes. Return must be made to milk, of course, and the milk should be above suspicion. The pure milk association is doing a good work.

As evidence of the prosperity of Kansas the commissioners' office calls attention to the ease with which banks are established in that state and the fact that each new one gets business without reducing the deposits of other banks. There have been 21 state banks started since the beginning of the year, although the new law requires a capital of $10,000, instead of $5,000, which was the former requirement. Under the old measure they were required to double their capital within a stated period, and they were able to meet this, over 50 per cent of them doing it with the surplus accumulated. While the state office thinks the business of organizing banks is being overdone, it is evident that there is still a large "stocking deposit" hoarded in Kansas homes.

Sinking Fund Will Buy.

Pittsburgh will fare better, apparently, on the filtration bond issue than it had reason to apprehend. The sinking fund commission will be able to take about two-thirds of the first $2,000,000, to be sold soon, and may be able to absorb more when the time of issue arrives. This is a vast improvement over the original monstrous proposition to sell the entire $5,000,000 to one bidder at the start, with an interest rate of 4 per cent.

Controller Larkin is entitled to a fair share of credit for bringing about these better conditions, though the exigencies of a city campaign are not to be ignored. At the best, the money will be provided before it is needed, yet the ability of the sinking fund commission to take a large part of the bond issue will bring back the interest to the treasury. This readiness of the commission is furthermore an evidence of the beneficial operation of laws long in force that require liquidation of municipal obligations to keep pace with their creation. No credit is due to any administration or any particular set of officials for the results from this fundamental law.

In Advance of Facts.

Without awaiting official explanations, many contemporaries are demanding new legal restrictions on the transport of explosives and the abolition of gas for train lighting as sequelae of the wreck at Harrisburg. Correspondents on the scene do not agree upon the causes of the explosions which added to the horrors of the wreck. The coroner of Dauphin county is holding off his inquest pending investigation now proceeding to determine the facts. Yet some newspapers undertake to find a verdict in advance and to recommend a lot of legislation, regardless of its effect.

The one thing established with reasonable certainty in connection with the Harrisburg calamity is that a freight car "buckled" out from the eastbound freight track at the moment the engine of a fast train was passing on the eastbound passenger track. Had the "buckle" been in the opposite direction, had it happened a minute sooner, or a minute later, there would have been no wreck of the passenger train. All else is shrouded in more or less doubt, and reports are conflicting.

Wrecks in the past, followed by fire, incited laws to abolish the heating of cars by stoves. The oil lamp was declared a danger. Now it is proposed to prohibit gas light and compel the use of electricity. Wrecked cars continue to burn. Some day a train lighted with electric lamps will be wrecked and the live wires will mix up with the human cargo and there will be a demand for something else. All of which goes to prove that new laws are less needed than the exercise of common sense.

In this country of magnificent distances a good many things are sacrificed for speed. There is a deal of hurry in railroading, in industrial operations, even in farm work, and accidents happen oftener than in Europe, where density of population compels different conditions and safety is more considered. Americans are apt to characterize their European cousins as "slow," and slow they are by comparison. Yet they have railroad accidents occasionally. It is an old proverb that one cannot eat his cake and yet have it whole. It is impossible to "rush" things with high-power machinery without incurring hazards. Legislation cannot cure all the defects in our high-pressure system.

Hostile Tariffs.

Washington correspondents note an increasing belief among members of congress that some revision of the tariff will soon be necessary. This revision need not necessarily take the form of reduction on all items, they say, but is more likely to look to raising more revenue and to make provision for meeting new tariffs abroad that are leveled at American products. There is no thought of abandoning or abating the protective principle.

Our own Washington correspondent discussed this matter the other day intelligently and instructively, after careful inquiry among public men. Within the past few days there has been abundant evidence in the news from Berlin and Vienna that Germany and Austria are endeavoring to shut out American goods from their markets. They propose to exclude this country from "favored nation" treatment in the future, and will likely persist in that course unless congress takes action to make them feel retaliatory pangs. Whatever may be done in the future it must be apparent a serious mistake was made in the past when the senate smothered all of the reciprocity treaties negotiated under instructions of President McKinley. Dating from that time the hostility of Germany, Austria and other countries began to take practical form. Prior to the date of those treaties the tariff hostility to America was almost entirely sentimental. Canada had made a preferential rate for Great Britain and raised the general tariff; Germany had made several advances in its schedules, but continued to treat our commerce as that of a favored nation. Since then, however, there has been manifest a disposition to administer trade punishment, if possible.

Mr. Burton's Views.

While Chairman Burton of the rivers and harbors committee has been free to recognize the claims of the Ohio river to national aid since the tour of the committee began, he has again set his face against the Monongahela. In a speech at Cincinnati he declared himself unwilling to indorse any further appropriation to the Monongahela until the improvement of the Ohio is completed, assigning as his reason that a large share of the traffic on the Monongahela stops at Pittsburgh to feed the rich industries of this city.

Pittsburgh will not quarrel with Mr. Burton, who is a conscientious man, though it may regard his views as peculiar. It is true, as he says, the government has spent $3,500,000 acquiring the property of the Monongahela Navigation Company. Yet now the property belongs to the government, would it not be good business policy to maintain it in good condition? It is true much of the traffic on that river stops here. It is equally true, however, that the largest traffic of the Ohio comes out of the Monongahela, directly, and the next largest comes indirectly from the feeding of the remainder of the Monongahela traffic to the rich industries of Pittsburgh.

It is true, moreover, that feeding the Monongahela traffic to the rich industries of Pittsburgh has been of immense advantage to the nation at large. It enables the home production of much that was formerly imported at greater cost to the consumers, and assists in maintaining an export trade that is profitable to the country. Mr. Burton's idea is that localities should pay directly for their benefits, or should pay part of the cost. The trouble is that no man is wise enough to tell what portion of a river improvement ought to be paid by one particular locality, or to determine what portion of the general revenue of the government is due to that locality.

Railway Congress Conclusions.

Much interest was manifested in the subject of rates by the international railway congress. There was a very earnest discussion by the delegates. Notice was taken in the debate of the remarks of the president and Secretary Taft, who has made the subject conspicuous, but the resolution itself makes no specific reference to government interference in correcting schedules. This declares that "with the reservation that rates shall be charged without arbitrary discrimination to all shippers alike under like conditions, the making of rates should as far as possible have all the elasticity necessary to permit the development of the traffic and to produce the greatest results to the public and to the railroads themselves." The specific denial from the French ambassador was hardly necessary to show that the introduction of the subject of government supervision by the administration at the banquet the other evening did not cause hard feelings.

The action of the congress on electrical equipment of steam roads amounts to a qualified indorsement of the system of electricity as a motive power, and the expression of the hope that experiments may be continued to further test the economic possibilities attending its use.

In Germany trains are run with a "head conductor" on the front of the locomotive and the system is recommended to American roads to secure greater safety. A "head conductor" in that Harrisburg affair would have been in an extremely perilous position, without being able to avert the catastrophe.

There is one way to avoid the transportation of high explosives. That is to have them manufactured where needed. It may be doubted, however, whether the method would cheapen the product or reduce the hazard to human life.

Chairman Burton has grown so enthusiastic over improvement of the Ohio that he proposes to shut the Monongahela out until the former is improved.

Though the journal have black graphite,
There is nickel on the gong.

A revival of peace talk just when Rojestvensky is unable to find Togo may have some foundation, but Togo is not doing any of the talking.

Mr. Burton lacks appreciation of the principal products of the Monongahela valley, or he would want more water on the side.

Germany will never be satisfied until the United States takes her wieners without sending any merchandise in exchange.

France fears a Japanese invasion of Indo-China, apparently having little faith in the power of Rojestvensky to prevent.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 14.—The land of Bohemia is like a huge floating island. It is here today, and tomorrow it may be miles away. To paraphrase the old Scotch, "Where MacGregor sits, there is the head of the table," "Where Bohemians eat there is Bohemia." There are many ports in this wonderful land of Bohemia, but none not Bohemians may enter, for as soon as the Philistines come in, Bohemia goes out. The real kings of Bohemia may live in hall bed rooms, and they may be the most unsuccessful of their crew, from the worldly point of view, because no one not a Bohemian can distinguish between the real and the genuine. That is the reason there are two "Bohemias," the real and the false. The false Bohemian really thinks he is of the blown in the bottle variety, and no one can convince him to the contrary.

People who ride in what the Broadway habitue contemptuously calls the "rubber neck wagon" are shown "Bohemia" every night. They are led into a restaurant and to them are pointed out the habitues of the place as though they were so many animals. The languid, asthenic looking youth in frayed garments is said to be a coming great writer, when in fact he is merely a clerk on an evening out, smoking cigarettes between the courses of a 40-cent dinner just to make himself believe he is a Bohemian of Bohemia. At his right sits a chap humming a song, and he is said to be a composer of light opera who is certain to make a hit next season, when in fact he has grown up from a vested choir boy. No, Bohemia is not for the on-looker. One may enter the portals of the door, but he can get no nearer Bohemia and Bohemians than if he remained at home in his little trundle bed. Bohemians are born, not made.

One Port Closed, One Closing.

If there were tears to be shed in Bohemia, now would be the time to shed them, for one of her chief ports has just been closed by the inexorable workings of the laws of building and necessity, and another is in a fair way to be closed by invasion. Bohemia never fights the invader, it would be useless. The true Bohemians simply fold their camp stools and hie elsewhere. But the one spot that has been closed will not soon be forgotten. And yet it was fate. The building department ordered the Casino theater to come down to the ground floor or go out of existence, and the most famous trysting place in the land of Bohemia is therefore no more. Its walls were covered with pictures hallowed by time, portraits of those long ago Bohemians who became famous and have since passed beyond the portals of the world into a land where, perhaps, they will be more thoroughly appreciated. Beneath their pictures, the old friends have met daily for years, and now even that consolation is denied them.

Invasion of Newest Port.

But the worst blow of all is the recent invasion of the latest port of Bohemia by the mob, those "who do not belong." Only a short two years ago Joe Gifanti was discovered as the one man in the great city of Manhattan who could cook spaghetti and some other things just as they should be cooked, and all for the price of 40 cents. The discoverer quietly passed the word around among the elect, and Joe at once became the vogue of Bohemia. His little cafe was filled nightly with kindred spirits who sat long and lovingly around the poorly-equipped table and drank the "red paint" served as wine as though it were of the finest vintage. The spirit was all outside the bottle, and it was quite homelike to see Joe in his white coat wandering from one table to another, calling his guests by their Christian names. For [illegible] months there was no place quite like Joe's, and all Bohemia rejoiced in the success of its existence.

A Judas Among the Elect.

Then there came a time, not so long ago, when some one of the elect made a mistake. He introduced a Judas into the charmed circle and all the world was informed. It is the fate of Bohemia to harbor within her heart someone who would sell his birthright for a half column of space in a newspaper, and so Joe was made the subject of an epic. To be sure his address was not given, but the spaghetti was extolled so highly that everyone was soon asking, "Where is Joe's place?" and many soon learned the secret. Then came the invasion, greatly to the profit of Joe's purse, it is true, but equally greatly to the disgust of the true lovers of Bohemia. Today it is necessary to send word in advance if one wants a place at Joe's hospitable board after 6 o'clock, and the price of his dinner has advanced to 55 cents. And all because someone could not forego that bit of "space" that netted him not to exceed the insignificant sum of $4.

Out in the Cold, Cold World.

Therefore Bohemia must move on, like the Indian forced gradually toward the setting sun by the advance of civilization. A score of hospitable doors have closed upon her in half as many years. There is yet a place or two that stand out like cities of refuge, and far be it from one of the true lovers of the guild to even so much as hint at the section of the city in which they are to be found. One who knows might tell of strange byways where the elect can be seen, like sleuths, stealthily making their way to some quiet spot known only to the few, where there is the best chop, the neatest waitress, and the most obliging chef in the whole world. What else there is to be had there it would not be fair to tell, for once the mob is given the scent, tricks that would foil even bloodhounds would not drag them from the trail. So long as the world knows nothing of these retreats, just so long will Bohemia have a meeting place unsullied by the common herd.

Oil from Borneo.

After having been refused permission to use the Suez canal owing to the dangerous character of her cargo the British steamship Batoum rounded the Cape of Good Hope in safety and arrived at Marcus Hook last night with 1,125,000 gallons of benzine in bulk from Borneo. The oil was produced in Borneo and the by-products extracted there. It is the first direct shipment to the United States, similar cargoes having come via Rotterdam, where they were transshipped.—Philadelphia Record.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

What does he plant who plants a tree?
He plants a friend of sun and sky;
He plants a flag of breezes free;
The shaft of beauty towering high;
He plants a home to heaven anigh
For song and mother-croon of bird.
In hushed and happy twilight heard—
The treble of heaven's harmony—
These things he plants who plants a tree.
—R. W. GILDER.

This is pretty tolerable stormy weather; so much so that the old residenter feels called upon to rise and explain that it wasn't so in the good old days when he was a boy.

And there are younger people who remember, or profess to remember, when May wasn't nearly as much like April ought to be as it is now.

Most of you who came from the farm will readily recall the fact that May was the month for planting corn. Also that wise old farmers would not plant until the white oak leaves were as big as squirrels' ears. As a rule the leaves reached this state of development along about the second week in May.

Have you noticed whether the leaves are on schedule time this year? If they are, we will be forced to conclude that May has not changed places, meteorologically speaking, with April. The oak leaf test is about as reliable as any—in all probability it is the old reliable test.

There is none to deny that the character of the seasons has changed considerably since before the war when many of your were farming, but not much in their periods of rotation. And the changes that have occurred are very trifling as compared with the changes that have occurred in the character of the face of the earth.

You have only to go back to the old farm to be made aware of this, and the changes are not pleasant to contemplate. The woods through which you rambled in search of service berries, black haws, wild grapes, mulberries, wild gooseberries, blackberries, walnuts, shellbarks and chestnuts, have nearly all been chewed up by hungry, unsentimental, noisy, portable sawmills. Even the stumps have been rooted out, so that there are no clearings, no new ground, no log heaps or brushpiles to shelter rabbits and snowbirds in winter, or to burn in the spring and fill the air with fragrant blue smoke.

The wild plums, persimmons and crapapples have nearly all been chased from their favorite resorts. And you can hardly find a cucumber tree, or quaking asp, or wild cherry, or yellow poplar.

All are gone, and what is worse, none has been planted to grow up in their place to shade the ground, preserve the springs that feed the brooks, and keep green the memories of other days.

Along with these woods of pleasant memory have gone the folks who cleared the fields in which you toiled from sun till sun with no walking delegates to make you afraid if, during the busy season, you began before sunrise and didn't quit as long as there was light enough to enable you to see what you were doing.

And the hewed log house, which your folks thought quite a luxury, has given place to a frame structure which is almost certain to prove unsatisfactory to you, if it does not prove to be a real disappointment. Prettier to look upon, more costly, and all that, but your heart demands the old log house to which your memory clings with great fondness.

Indeed, you may not have forgotten the unhewn log house that "gran'daddy" built when he took up his abode in the woods.

A cabin of the old type was not a thing of beauty exactly, but it certainly was a most comfortable and cheerful sort of house. Maybe only one room, but there was room enough in which to rear a goodly family of girls and boys, to have weddings, quiltings, apple bees and funerals; room enough in which to entertain the circuit riders, visiting friends, or belated strangers.

And it was real entertainment they got, too. The best that the farm and the woods produce was served with such heartiness and generous goodwill as is rarely found in the new house in which style cuts out a good deal of the better part of entertaining.

Our old friend, A. J. Buffington of Bentleyville, up in Washington county, was evidently stirred up some by the orchard land piece that appeared in this column a few days ago, for he just knocked off work and turned in and wrote a piece of poetry, a dozen verses or more in length. And no wonder it is long, for it covers a period of two-thirds of a century. It starts off thus:

"Great grandfather left dower to many a one,
In the orchard he planted mid the hills of Pike Run.
We crossed this famed orchard going to school,
And observed it more closely than our teacher's firm rule.
"Its blossoms in springtime in beauty foretold
The fine fruit the lap of autumn would hold,
And invited the bees to revel in bliss.
And to come later on the bruised windfall to kiss."

Of course he couldn't help getting some kissing in it. You see, he is one of those old boys who believed in kissing plays, and as these were the principal winter evening amusement, the kissing habit got so ground into them that they never will get rid of it; at least they never will forget it.

And it isn't a bad sort of habit to stick to, don't you think?

He was there all right—in the orchard—as the succeeding verses clearly prove. There are rather too many of them for this column, and the big magazines might think the poem, like some orchards, needed a careful and thorough pruning.

Friend Buffington, A. J. (Andrew Jackson), left out some excellent points. He had to, else his poem would have strung out longer than the moral law, or even longer than the report of the proceedings of a session of the state legislature.

He failed to mention the grain sickle, made by one Jonathan Sharpless, that hung on a limb of one of the trees; of the bald-headed hornet's nest a few limbs higher, and the oriole's nest still higher up. He touches on the cider press, and the bees that were "caught up by the whelming tide" and had to swim for their lives, but misses the waspy wasp that ambushed itself in ripe and mellow apples and impatiently waited for a barefoot boy or girl to come along and get stung.

He says he has heard tell of champagne and burgundy, and beer. Inhabitants of the Monongahela valley don't need more than to hear of such things, for they have a still more potent beverage right at home, and a plenty of it. But over and beyond them all, he cries; "Give me Romanite cider sucked through a straw."

Well, he is about right—he is right, for if people would stick to Romanite cider as a beverage, with Rambo apples for eating, there would be a whole lot more useful and successful people in the world, to say nothing of more than half of sin and misery and failure, that would be out off.

Anyhow, the orchard is all right, and it always was all right, and it will be all right for all time to come, or at least until apples go out of fashion.

To Observe a Peace Day.

Secretary Martin of the Massachusetts state board of education has sent to the superintendents of schools through his state a circular letter setting forth the recommendation of the board that appropriate exercises be held in the schools of the state on May 18, the anniversary of the opening of The Hague conference in 1899.—Chicago Journal.

STILL USING FLINT

An Historic Industry Once Essential for Firearms.

"The village of Brandon, Suffolk, is the seat of the oldest industry in Great Britain, namely, the mining and manufacture of flint into 'strike-a-lights,' and gun flints," says the London Standard. Experts are of opinion that some of the archaic terms in use among the Brandon knappers now are relics of the Neolithic language, and that a perfect pedigree has been made out for the gun and tinder-box flints of today, originating with the earliest savage who hit on the notion of using splinters of flint wherewith to hunt, feed, fight, and dress skins. This means that the Brandon industry has been established for at least 10,000 years. When metals became known, it was kept alive during long centuries by the continuous demand for strike-a-lights, and in the seventeenth century was revivified and remodelled by the invention of flint-lock small arms. From 1688 until 1835, when the adoption of percussion caps effected a complete change, the Brandon mines formed the sole source for the supply of gun-flints to government.

This prehistoric factory is still flourishing, but who are the customers? Answer, for gun flints, the natives of Central and Western Africa and the Arab tribes round the Mediterranean, all of whom are precluded from acquiring "arms of precision," i.e., breech-loading rifles or sporting guns, and for strike-a-lights, the Italian and Spanish peasants, who prefer the tinder-box to any other means of obtaining a light. Brandon now turns out about 150,000 gun-flints per week, which are consigned in casks of five, 10, 15 and 20 thousand flints to merchants in Liverpool, Bristol, Birmingham, London and Germany. The output of strike-a-lights averages about 20,000 per week. During the South African war 14,000 tinder-boxes containing the best Brandon flints were issued to the troops. Then cores from which flakes have been struck are slightly worked up to form building stones. No better flint than that obtained from the Brandon beds has ever been known to exist; it is more certain in its fire and more durable than any other.

Digging Methods and Tools Unchanged.

A visit to this old-world industry is a most interesting experience. The method of mining the stone and dressing it into shape is practically the same as of yore. Even the tools have altered little, save that iron has superseded stone in the hammers and horn in the picks. The masses of flint are principally obtained from Lingheath Common, a mile southeast of the village, where the flint occurs in five layers, in pieces of two feet or three feet long in the chalk.

There is no combination of the industry. Each miner works on his own, and sells his stone to the knappers, who carry on their labors independently in little outhouses attached to their cottages. Permission to dig is obtained from the trustees of the heath, no groundage being charged. The method of sinking a shaft is very strange. The digger works down for five feet or six feet, then proceeds for half that distance in a horizontal direction, and sinks another shaft to the depth of about eight feet. If a floor of flint is not encountered at this depth, he again proceeds horizontally, and sinks another shaft, continuing the process until a floor is struck. It is called digging on the sosh, and the cumbrous method is believed to be a relic of the times when rope, bucket, windlass, etc., were unknown, and the material had to be carried up the steps, as still is done. A digger took the writer down a shaft 40 feet in depth. The novice finds it a very arduous climb; indeed, he could hardly do it without assistance. At the bottom one has to crawl on hands and knees through a labyrinth of burrows, in which the digger works lying on his side, his tools being a one-sided, steel-tipped iron pick and a short crowbar, hewing out matrices which attain half a ton in weight. The matrices are then broken into pieces weighing from a quarter of a hundredweight to two hundredweight apiece, for handing up the steps, and stacked in heaps at the pit's mouth, called jags. When possible the jags are covered with loose branches of fir, to prevent the sun and wind from bleaching the flint, rendering it less valuable.

Preparing the Gun Flint.

Returning to the village, a master flint maker gave a practical demonstration of the various processes of gun flint manufacture, namely, quartering, flaking and knapping. After they have been dried in the sun or before the fire, the blocks of stone are taken just as they are delivered, placed on a thick leather pad on the workman's knee, and gently struck with a quartering hammer, which breaks a stone into pieces about six or seven inches square. The flaking of these pieces is the most difficult branch of the business, for the stone must be struck at the proper angle, in the exact spot, and with a certain force, and all but the first of these elements vary with every flake. A good flaker will make from 5,000 to 7,000 flakes in a day, working so fast that by the time a flake falls into the tub a fresh one is struck off. Most of the flakes are long, flat and knife-shaped, and pieces are struck off until only the core, used for building, remains. For the last process of knapping, or forming the flakes into gun flints, the man sits on a stool at a block, into the upper surface of which a six-inch tapering iron stake is driven, and padded at the sides with leather. The flake is taken in the left hand, held on the stake face uppermost, and with a chisel-like hammer the fragments are knapped off and trimmed. A good flake will make four, and a very good one five gun flints.

Palmy Days of the Industry.

The palmy days of the industry were some 80 years ago, when the British government, John company, and foreign powers were bidding against one another for the choicest gun flints. In those days, it is said, the knappers played pitch and toss with guinea pieces. Until comparatively recent times a roaring trade was still done in supplying second-rate European and Oriental powers with gun flints. One of the last really big orders was executed by Mr. Snare's grandfather, who shortly before the outbreak of the Crimean war supplied the Turkish government with 15,000,000. This prehistoric factory was recently in danger of dying out, but happily it has been resuscitated, thanks to the conservatism of the Spanish and Italian peasantry in regard to tinder-boxes, and to the fact of gun-flints being a capital means of bartering among the African negroes. Mainly subsisting on the somewhat precarious charity of these latter, it would seem, however, to have well-nigh completed the cycle of its existence.

The Widow's Wail.

"If John had only made a will,
I never would have had
This trouble with the property;
It really is too bad!

"The lawyers bother me so much,"
The Widow Jenkins sighed,
"I do declare I almost wish
That John had never died!"

STATE GLEANINGS

Tried to Be Helpful.

A pathetic case of a brother's love for his sisters stirred the emotions of our citizens, Tuesday evening, when it was learned that little Mike Bason had walked from Greenville to this place, a distance of 14 miles, with the hope that he might secure work in the mills, and thus earn money for the support of his two little orphaned sisters. Mike is only 15 years of age and when he applied at the big mill gates, weary and foot sore, he was refused work because of his slight figure and tender age. Discouraged and heart sick he wearily wended his way up to Sharon, where his pitiable condition was noticed. He was given food and lodging, and Wednesday morning a purse was collected to send him home and a small amount to lighten the burdens of himself and his loved ones.—South Sharon News.

Captured a Strange Bird.

Messrs. William M. Giessner and Oscar P. Poorbaugh, in company with the father of one of the men, while near Mr. Conrad Kiedel's in North Hempton township, saw a large bird and one utterly unknown to them. It came at them savagely and striking with its wings and bill, the latter being four inches long. They had quite a time before they secured it. It had a long neck, but its legs are short and feet webbed. They brought it to town. It is a species of the loon family, and investigation of the books proved it the great northern diver. Its plumage is black, white and speckled. It probably had its young near by, else it would not have showed fight as soon as the men approached it.—Myersdale Commercial.

How She Lost It.

One of the young ladies from South Brookville met with an unfortunate loss on Monday. She had just completed one of those dainty undergarments known to the trade as a corset cover, and was bringing it over town to show to some of her friends. This must have been her intention, as these articles are most certainly not made for any other purpose. When on the Pickering street bridge she had occasion to lay down her package to tie a shoestring, and just then a sudden gust of wind came along and carried it into Red Bank creek, the last that the young lady saw of her prized garment being as it gave up its aerial flight and landed feather-edge up in the creek near the White street bridge.—Brookville Republican.

A Huge Barn.

A mammoth barn building is now a conspicuous attraction on the Jacob Heines farm in Bell township, Westmoreland county, near Apollo. The dimensions are 85 feet width, 135 feet length and proportionately high, with stabling underneath this entire space within a stone wall 14 feet high. The building is just completed, nearly all of last summer being taken up with the work as well.—Tarentum Times.

Lightning Finally Demolished the Tree.

During the storm of last Friday noon lightning struck and destroyed the large chestnut tree that stood by the spring on the old Fleming homestead in Concord township, now occupied by G. W. Fleming. The tree had been struck two or three times before, and not seriously injured, but this time it was split to pieces. It was left stand there when the farm was cleared about 75 years ago, and had grown to be a very large tree.—Butler Citizen.

Stole Soapsuds for Beer.

The keeper of a boarding house at Wall, whose boarders require considerable beer, set a trap for those who were helping themselves. He took an empty keg and filled it with strong soapsuds. He drove the bung in tightly and placed the keg where he thought it would be the first one to be seen by the intending beer thieves. He was not disappointed, as the suspected parties put in an appearance and he saw them run away with the keg.—Wilmerding News.

Age No Bar to Love.

A Queer Combination.

"Queer drinks? Well, I should say so, plenty of them. Fellow walked in here the other day, looked sensible enough, was well dressed, wasn't full, nothing of that kind. Sort of a man you would expect to take a small drink of whisky, say nothing, pay his money, and good-by. What do you think he asked for? Only a buttermilk lemonade, that's all!

"I thought I misunderstood him, so I said: 'A buttermilk lemonade?'

"'Yes,' he answered.

"'Never heard of such a drink,' I remarked, 'how is it made?'

"'Simple enough,' he replied, 'Just use buttermilk instead of water.'

"I made it as directed, he drank it, and it never killed him, because I'm blessed if he wasn't here the next day for another."—Beverages.

Typewriters Electrified.

"When a typewriter has been operated for several hours at a stretch it becomes a center of electrical phenomena," remarked a stenographer. "Touch it with something metallic and you will get a distinct shock. At the same time there will be a crackling sound and a spark will appear at the point of contact. If another person than the one who has been operating it should begin to pound the keyboard after the machine has been in continuous use for a couple of hours he will experience a real electrical sensation, the pins-and-needles feeling of a foot asleep."

TOURISTS HAVE DAY OF REST

Religious Services Are Held on the Queen City—Kentuckians Entertain the Party.

MR. BURTON QUITS THE BOAT

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM AUSTIN BEACH, Staff Correspondent.

CARROLLTON, KY., May 14.—This has been a day of rest and quiet on board the Queen City, and most welcome has it been after the somewhat strenuous four days between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, experienced by the rivers and harbors committee and party. Another agreeable change, one specially appreciated by every member of the party, is in the weather. Previous to leaving Cincinnati this morning there was another terrific downpour of rain, but at 11 o'clock, when lines were cast off and the voyage down the river resumed, the clouds had disappeared and the sun was shining brightly.

It was a monster tide of water on which the Queen City floated. At Cincinnati the marks showed over 40 feet, and a 50-foot stage at that point was anticipated. It was a boisterous river, too, for a wind of almost hurricane proportions blew up the valley all the morning and most of the afternoon, giving the pilots plenty to do in holding the steamer on her course. Shortly after 4 o'clock this afternoon the steamer tied up and will remain until tomorrow morning. No sooner had the boat landed than she was boarded by a committee of leading citizens, who at once captured the Queen City party, loaded them in buggies and surreys, and behind their fast Kentucky-bred horses whirled the ladies and gentlemen away on a pleasant drive over splendid roads through a most beautiful country.

The heavy clothes worn by the Queen City's passengers have been put away, and summer garments are in evidence, the attire of the ladies being quite attractive.

Early this afternoon a song service was held in the cabin. Secretary James W. Wardrop of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association had charge. President E. J. Lloyd of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association played the accompaniments, being assisted in some of the selections by the orchestra. Capt. W. B. Rodgers, while at Cincinnati, commissioned Ed. Sykes to secure a supply of gospel hymnals and Sykes led the singing. E. F. Hutchinson, one of Chairman Burton's stenographers, read a scripture lesson; J. Frank Tilley of the coal exchange offered prayer; Capt. John F. Dravo gave an eloquent talk on the love of Christ and Mr. Wardrop told something of his experiences while engaged in mission work in New York's slums. Besides Chairman Burton, Capt. Thomas M. Rees and his daughter left the boat at Cincinnati. Chairman Burton went to Chicago. Capt. W. B. Rodgers will return to Pittsburgh from Louisville tomorrow. Albert Bettinger, Ohio's vice president of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, and Mrs. Bettinger, joined the party at Cincinnati and will make the round trip. The principal topic of talk today has been the speech made at last night's banquet by J. E. Randsell, the Louisiana member of the rivers and harbors committee, in which he offered the suggestion that the Ohio Valley Improvement association and the citizens of Cincinnati take the initiative in arranging for a great national waterways convention to be held in Washington or New York shortly after the next convening of congress, the purpose being to call on congress and President Roosevelt for larger appropriations for the improvement of rivers and harbors throughout the country. The suggestion has been received with the greatest enthusiasm and promises to bear fruit, as the most important result of the tour.

A Land of Lakes and Islands.

At a point 145 miles north of the city of Toronto, Canada, on the Grand Trunk Railway System is reached one of the most magnificent districts in the "Highlands of Ontario," known as the "Lake of Bays" District. The region comprises a series of connected lakes, over which large steamers are navigated. What greatly adds to the Lake of Bays value as a health-giving and sportsman's resort is the unmatched purity of the air one breathes upon its heights. The visitor forgets his ills under its reviving influence in less than a week. Its bracing morning breeze which rivals the celebrated atmosphere of Pike's Peak, Col., imparts new lung power and fresh vitality. Handsome illustrated publications sent free on application to W. Over Two Hundred Foreign Railway Officials Will Visit Pittsburgh Today.

SPECIAL TOURS AROUND CITY

Over 200 delegates representing the railways and governments of 33 foreign countries at the international railway congress, just adjourned at Washington, D. C., will arrive in Pittsburgh tonight at 8:45 o'clock and tomorrow make a tour of the railway lines in the local district. Pittsburgh is the only city of the United States that will be visited by all the delegates on their tour of the country, the delegates being divided into two parties on leaving Pittsburgh.

The delegates comprise the most prominent railway officials in the world and they are nearly all men of note in their own countries, a number of international reputation. Some are government officials in countries where the national governments own and operate the railroads. There are ministers of railways, presidents, general managers, commissioners, public works officials, secretaries, government delegates, chief and assistant engineers, superintendents, councilors and attaches of governments, directors, inspectors, attorneys, editors and railroad officials of various grades of importance.

Many Countries Represented.

Prominent among the delegates is Sir Francis Mowatt, G. C. B., director of the Great Northern railway of England. Countries as far distant as India, Japan, South Africa, Australia and Chile are represented. The European countries have each many delegates to the congress. The following countries have delegates who will compose the body that visits Pittsburgh: Uruguay, Holland, India, Denmark, Spain, Germany, France, Austria, England, Belgium, Sweden, Portugal, Wales, Hungary, Brazil, Scotland, Argentine, Switzerland, Russia, Australia, South Africa, Chile, Greece, Ecuador, Ireland, Norway, Roumania, Finland, Italy, Siam, Japan, Turkey, Isle of Man.

Two special trains leaving the Union station at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, will carry the visitors through and around Pittsburgh. The route will be down the Panhandle to the Ohio connecting bridge, which will be crossed to the Fort Wayne tracks. By the Fort Wayne and the West Penn the trains will run to Aspinwall, where they cross back to Pittsburgh and by the Brilliant cutoff reach the main line of the Pennsylvania. This will be followed to Wilmerding, where lunch will be served at the Westinghouse air-brake works.

Delegates Divide Here.

Returning, the trains will cross the Monongahela river at Port Perry to the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad and run to Homestead, where a stop will be made and the return trip continued to the Union station. At 5 o'clock in the evening part of the delegates will start for Cleveland on what is known as the "short tour," and half an hour later the other delegates will leave for Cincinnati on the "long tour."

The local committee of arrangements consists of Robert Pitcairn of the Pennsylvania railroad, chairman; G. L. Peck of the Pennsylvania lines west; J. W. Patterson of the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal railway; E. H. Utley of the Bessemer & Lake Erie; J. B. Yohe of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie; W. C. Loree of the Baltimore & Ohio; Robert Finney of the Baltimore & Ohio, and A. M. Schoyer of the Pennsylvania lines west.

The reception committee consists of H. C. Frick, George Westinghouse, A. C. Dinkey, Willis King, James McCrea, Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, J. H. Reed, Frank Robbins, William B. Schetler, W. G. Park, J. W. Friend, John M. Hanson, J. D. Callery, John A. Brashear, Mayor W. B. Hays, E. M. Bigelow, John Eaton, George H. Anderson, C. A. Book, A. J. Barr, George T. Oliver, Theodore W. Nevin, W. H. GIRLS STAGE-STRUCK.

Two Johnstown Maidens Leave Home and Are Arrested by Detectives in Pittsburgh.

Two stage-struck girls from Johnstown, aged 16, were taken into custody at the Union station last night at 8 o'clock by Detectives Leff and Aymer, when they arrived in the city. The father of one of the girls had telephoned ahead to the police, giving a description of the girls and of an umbrella, with a peculiar handle, which was the only baggage his daughter carried. The umbrella was convincing evidence to the detectives, although the girls declared they were not the ones wanted.

They said they were Ruby and Dolores Lincoln, but when taken to Central station one of them confessed and said they were to meet a man in Allegheny, who had promised to put them on the stage.

He Is Believed to Have Gone to Washington—Unable to Attend Banquet.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Admiral and Mrs. Dewey left the Cambridge, where they have been staying since Thursday, today. It is believed they returned to Washington.

Admiral Dewey came on from Washington on Friday to attend the annual meeting yesterday of the order of Founders and Patriots of America, at which he was elected governor general. Owing to sudden illness he was unable to be present at the meeting and at the banquet last night of the New York society of the order, at which he was to have been the guest of honor.

GRAFT WITNESS IS RAIDED BY THE POLICE

Minnie Hunter of Allegheny the Latest to Be Caught on the North Side.

Another proprietress of an alleged disorderly house in Allegheny, who has been identified with the commonwealth's side of the Allegheny graft investigation, was raided early yesterday morning by the North Side police. It was yesterday said that the police intend to prefer charges against the woman, and when Attorney John Marron, one of the graft lawyers, learned of the woman's arrest he said he would appear at the hearing to be held at Central police station this morning.

About 12:25 a. m. yesterday Lieut. Robert Dickson and Policeman Michael Redman and Oscar J. Stemmler allege they were attracted to the house of Minnie Hunter at 403 West Robinson street, by sounds of disorder. At the hearing the police testified when they arrived at the house the place was in an uproar and a large crowd of people was collected outside. The proprietress, two girls and four men were locked up. The police testified one of the visitors was given a beating after he bought a case of beer. Two of the visitors were fined $5 each and the other two discharged. The Hunter woman and the girls were held for a further hearing this morning.

The police also raided the house of Mary Hackett, at 905 West Robinson street, Allegheny, yesterday morning. The proprietress, five girls and five men were placed under arrest. At the hearing the Hackett woman was fined $25, the girls $10 each and the visitors were discharged.

PITTSBURGH FIRM FAILS.

Receiver Is Appointed Upon Petition of the First National Bank of New Kensington.

GREENSBURG, May 14.—(Special.)—Upon the petition of the First National bank of New Kensington a receiver has been appointed for the Columbia Drilling and Manufacturing Company of Pittsburgh. The company was organized two years ago with a capitalization of $50,000, of which $40,700 was subscribed.

The assets, which consist of 77 acres of ground and steel and brick buildings in New Kensington, amount to $50,000, while the liabilities are only $53,000. The company acknowledges its insolvency, alleging that the plant was not being operated at a profit on account of mismanagement and limited capital. D. B. Doty of New Kensington was appointed receiver, his bond being $20,000.

Why Not
Give your heart the same attention you do the other organs?
If your stomach, lungs, liver, kidneys or any other organ is in trouble, refuses to work, you hasten to repair them.
The heart never refuses as long as it has power to move, but continues to do the best it can, getting weaker and weaker, until it is past repair, and then stops. It is just as sick as the other organs, and needs help, but because it will work, you let it.
This is wrong. If your heart is weak, you should take
Dr. Miles' Heart Cure
to strengthen your heart and enable it to overcome Dizziness, Palpitation, Short Breath, Faint Spells, Pains in Heart and Side, and all other Heart difficulties.
"I had palpitation of the heart so bad that I would faint away. My doctor recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and it helped me from the start."

MT. LEBANON,
You can secure a quarter acre at about the same price that is being asked for ordinary building lots in neighboring plans that are far less desirable in location.

Though only 20 minutes by trolley from the downtown business section, with car service both ways every seven minutes right through the plan, Alanco Place is so situated that none of the smoke and dirt can ever reach it, and in healthfulness and natural beauty it is unsurpassable.
ON SATURDAY and SUNDAY, MAY 20 and 21,
The Opening Sale of Lots in Alanco Place Will Be Held.
But don't wait until then—go out and see the property at once, as the very lot you may wish may be sold before the opening day.
There are only 376 pieces in all and the prices at which they are to be offered will cause them to be eagerly seized by shrewd investors.
Whether you have any definite idea of purchasing or not, you will find a trip to Alanco a delightful experience, because a more refreshing spot cannot be found anywhere.
Board a Mt. Lebanon, Charleroi or Castle Shannon car and tell the conductor to let you off at Alanco.

COSSACKS LASH GIRL STUDENTS

Not a Sabre Is Drawn in the Russian Capital at May Day Celebration.

BOMB THROWING PREVENTED

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, May 15.—The widely heralded May day demonstration in St. Petersburg were a complete fiasco and reports from Moscow and the provinces indicate that order reigned on Sunday generally throughout the entire extent of Russia. Minor disorders are reported at Reval, Kishineff and one or two other places, but up to midnight no reports of serious tumults or loss of life have been received, and the attempt of the Social Democrats and Social revolutionists to signalize May day by great anti-government demonstrations appear to have been a thorough failure.

In St. Petersburg the revolutionaries found it impossible to execute the program of demonstrations and bomb-throwing which they so widely advertised. More or less tension and agitation were apparent in the industrial quarters among workmen promenading under the eyes of Cossacks with whips in their hands, but otherwise the city wore almost a normal appearance.

At the Preobrajensky cemetery, where the principal meeting in honor of the January martyrs or the victims of "Red Sunday" are popularly called, had been advertised, a scanty crowd, largely composed of curiosity seekers, assembled. Cossacks dispersed the crowd, the more aggressive of whom sang the "Marseillaise" as they were crossing the fields. This was met by a charge of Cossacks who used their whips freely, inflicting many injuries. There was a similar incident on Vassili Island, where a dozen students, mainly girls, raised the "Marseillaise," and gathered a crowd. Cossacks cantered up and dispersed the crowd with whips, seeming to take special pleasure in slashing the girl students with their whips, but the latter apparently were anxious to pose as martyrs and deliberately provoked attack by singing revolutionary songs. Sabres were not even drawn and nobody was seriously hurt.

DEATH SUDDENLY CALLS JESSIE BARTLETT DAVIS

Well-Known Actress Expires in Chicago, Gains Prominence While With the Bostonians.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 14.—Jessie Bartlett Davis, a well-known actress, died suddenly at her home in this city today. The cause of her death was heart disease produced by nephritis. She was taken ill on Friday and on Saturday morning became unconscious, from which condition she never recovered. When her physician first diagnosed her illness as nephritis on Friday, no alarming symptoms were apparent, but Saturday morning she grew rapidly worse until 6:30 o'clock this morning, when she died.

Mrs. Davis first became prominent on the stage while she was connected with the Bostonians. Her first engagement on the stage was in the role of "Buttercup" in "Pinafore," about 30 years ago. After being connected with the Bostonians for nearly 10 years Mrs. Davis severed her connection with that organization in 1901, when she entered vaudeville. Her last regular engagement in opera was with Francis Wilson's company in "Erminie," last year.

Mrs. Davis was the wife of Will J. Davis, a theatrical manager of this city. She was 46 years old.

BOILER BECOMES PRISON.

Boy Squeezes Into It, but Finds It More Difficult to Get Out.

Playing "hide and seek" Francis Boyle, aged 12, who lives at Thirty-second street and Spring alley, gathered a crowd of 300 or 400 people last evening.

The scene of the game was R. Munro & Sons boiler yards at Twenty-third street and Liberty avenue. An empty boiler presented a fine hiding place and the boy squeezed through a manhole and got inside. When he tried to leave he found that the hole which was large enough to admit him was too small for his escape. He set up a yell which attracted his companions and their cries brought people from all over the neighborhood.

Word was sent to No. 3 station and Officer Andrew Winsted was sent down. He succeeded after an hour's work in getting the boy out, but the little fellow was badly bruised about the hips.

WANDERING CHILDREN ARE PICKED UP BY POLICE

For a time last evening No. 7 police station took on the appearance of a kindergarten. Between 8 and 9 o'clock three little tots who had strayed from their homes were brought in and placed in charge of Matron Kramer. Later they were called for by their parents. Their names were given as Rosie Schuster, aged 2, of Eighth and Carson streets; James McGaff, aged , of 1321 Carso nstreet, and John Strawiski, aged 3, of 1423 Carson street.

Croatian Uses His Knife.

Caspar Stark and Joseph Farkatch were attacked yesterday and cut with a knife by Joseph Wogish, a Croatian. Wogish is held at the South Thirteenth street police station to await the outcome of the injuries he inflicted on the two men. Stark is the owner of the Hill Farm dairy, at the head of South Thirty-third street, and Farkatch is secretary of the Franz Joseph Beneficial association. Both men are in the South Side hospital.

JAPAN HAS PROOF AGAINST FRANCE

Reports Show Russia Used Indo-Chinese Waters After the Dates Denied.

STATEMENT OF HIGH OFFICIAL

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

TOKYO, May 14.—Detailed confirmatory information concerning Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's use of Indo-China waters has reached the Japanese government from a variety of sources, both official and private. A high Japanese officer today sketched to the Associated Press the important acts of the Russian fleet since France was first moved to preserve neutrality. He said:

"The governor general of Indo-China officially reported that the Russian fleet had entirely departed from Kamranh bay on April 22, but on April 23 there still remained in the bay one cruiser, one torpedo boat destroyer and 15 transports of the Russian fleet. On April 24 the entire Russian fleet re-entered Kamranh bay and rode at anchor until April 26, when a majority of the warships sailed, leaving behind four converted cruisers and one torpedo boat destroyer. These latter vessels took supplies of coal and provisions. On April 26, toward evening, these vessels stopped and examined the German steamer Loosek and the Norwegian steamer Providence, which passed outside of the bay. On April 27 more than 30 Russian vessels were anchored at Honkohe and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon they stopped and examined the British steamer Stettin, which was passing.

"According to the French official report, Vice Admiral Rojestvensky promised Admiral de Jonquieres that he would leave Honkohe on May 3. It is evident, however, that the Russians were anchored at Honkohe on May 8.

"The latest telegrams from Indo-China indicate the presence at Honkohe on May 12 of seven Russian battleships, seven cruisers, two torpedo boat destroyers and four converted cruisers.

"Since the appearance of the Russian fleet in the far east, Saigon has become a base for the transportation of military supplies for Vice Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet. The number of vessels furnishing supplies to the Russians is so great that those which were anchored at Saigon on May 5 were countable by tens."

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 14.—Today's game between Pittsburgh and the Hanlonites at Washington park, Brooklyn, was a pretty pitchers' battle up to the sixth inning between Leever and Eason, neither side being able to score and only two hits being made, one off each boxman. Pittsburgh, however, took the lead in the sixth, when Clancy drove the ball into the street back of the right field fence for the route, sending Wagner in ahead of him with enough time to win the game. Score, Pittsburgh 5, Brooklyn 1.

Brooklyn got its only tally in the sixth on a double and a single. Leever was in superb form today, only following three hits, Batch making two of them, and Sheckard the other. Wagner and Beaumont were the king stickers today. Howard made the star play of the day. In the fifth Dobbs brought the spectators to their feet with a long smash to right field labeled "home run" all over it. Howard started back looking over his shoulder until he struck the fence. Turning quickly, he caught the ball just as it was about to hit the fence and about two feet from the ground. After Clarke had flied out in the opening inning, Beaumont hit a double. Howard flied out. Wagner worried Eason until he was passed. Clancy followed Howard's example by flying out, closing the inning.

The next four innings were almost a procession between the field and bench for the visitors. In the sixth, however, Pittsburgh got busy, probably awakening to the fact that threatening clouds were gathering and rain likely to fall any minute. Beaumont started the inning with a "Texas leaguer" back of third. Howard advanced him to second on a sacrifice. Wagner singled to left. Beaumont tried to score on the hit, but Sheckard's throw nipped him at the plate. Clancy sent Lumley to the fence for his rap, but all the Brooklynite could do was to stand there and see it go over, while Wagner and Clancy scored. Ritchey got a base on balls and McBride closed the inning by fouling out.

In the eighth the visitors got another tally. Beaumont tripled, his third hit, and scored on Howard's single. Two more were added to the Pirates' string in the ninth. Carisch walked. Batch got Leever's foul fly. Clarke singled to right. Beaumont's long fly scored Carisch. Howard received another gift from Eason. Lewis made a good attempt to get Clancy's hit fly back of short, but failed, Clarke scoring the fifth and last run for the visitors. The score:

Bill Garrett Wins His Game.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14.—(Special.)—The Princeton Freshmen beat Penn Freshmen on University Field yesterday, 5 to 1. The defeat of the Penn youngsters was due chiefly to their inability to connect safely with Garrett's slow curves. Takaki, the little Jap, who played third base for Penn, showed a good knowledge of the game. The score:

ANDERSON AND SMITH OUT FOR OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Last year W. J. Travis, the American, won the British amateur championship, and if the open championship should come here this year Britons would be beaten at their own game by golfers who are thought on the other side to have much yet to learn.

CHICAGO, May 14.—Chicago defeated New York today 9 to 3. Puttman was a little unsteady, allowing Chicago to make five two-base hits, and giving five men their base on balls, three of whom scored. The difficult one-hand catches made by Chase, who later made a home run, were features of the game. Attendance, 15,416. Score:

COFFEE TAKES PUNCHING FROM WILLIE FITZGERALD

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—(Special.)—In ability to stand punishment, "Kid" Coffee of Brooklyn proved to be a second Joe Coburn when he took a terrific beating at the hands of Willie Fitzgerald at the National A. C. last night. Fitzgerald tried hard to finish his opponent, but although Coffee was hammered viciously in every round he was not knocked off his feet once during the setto.

The semi-finish was stopped in the fourth round to save Tommy Heimann of San Francisco from being knocked out by Jack O'Neill of this city.

MONTGOMERY TO COACH THE INTERSCHOLASTIC NINE

Milt Montgomery, the well-known Allegheny player, will coach the interscholastic baseball nine this spring. Montgomery will join the team July 12, the first day it practices, and will then accompany it to Westminster college, where two games will be played, and then to Grove City college. He will stay with the team until the season opens at Waynesburg, which club he will captain.

The Interscholastics will become the Pittsburgh collegians when the players return from the different colleges. Capt. Tom Uptegraft of Shadyside academy has not as yet made his final selection, but the collegians will be one of the best in the business. Uptegraft was pleased with the work of the players last week, that of Don Doyle against Amherst; Schultz, in shutting out University school of Cleveland without a hit, and "Ling" Moffet in saving Indiana normal from a defeat by stealing five bases. Kerr Price, who will play short is putting up a good game on the Ohio Northern university nine.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL ATHLETIC GOSSIP

Kiski and Shadyside meet today at Friendship park.

In the 220-yard hurdle Saturday at Princeton it was a close race between Porter of Yale and Armstrong of Princeton, but the Yale man broke the tape a fraction of a second before the Princeton man crossed the line.

The interscholastic tennis tournament at Princeton was won by the Western High school of Washington, D. C. The final match lay between Gordon of Western High school and Hewitt of the Princeton Preparatory school. Gordon beat Hewitt 6-4, 1-6, 6-4. In the semi-finals Gordon beat Partridge, winner of this year's Yale interscholastic tournament, 6-3, 6-4.

Illinois pitched Chicago down another round when Huff's colt defeated the Maroons at baseball 9 to 4. Angered because of the criticism of his playing in the fourth inning by Coach Harper of the Maroons, First Baseman Yates took a slug at his coach, who was sitting on the bench, almost knocking him off. Fellow players interposed and the incident was over in a minute. Yates mishandled the ball on two occasions, which resulted in Harper's criticisms.

M. W. Sheppard, representing Brown Preparatory school of Philadelphia in the Cornell interscholastic track meet Saturday, broke the interscholastic record for the mile, lowering the time from 4:32 to 4:28 2-5.

Unless some accident occurs this week, the Cornell junior varsity crew, which is to row at Philadelphia on May 27, will be made up as follows: Bow, Studevant 2, Powers; 3, Chapman; 4, Goodier; 5, Johnson; 6, Rapmundt; 7, Newton; stroke, Adams; coxswain, Rankin.

Lew Doyle, the Princeton outfielder who will be with the Pittsburgh collegians this summer, had a triple and a double Saturday against Cornell.

M. S. Hare, Yale, 1905, end rush on the Yale football eleven of last fall, who has played football for eight years without an accident, tried baseball the other day, and broke his leg. Hare was induced to try for the nine and had gone out for his first practice. In trying for a long fly, he collided with two other fielders, and fell, twisting his leg and breaking it just below the knee.

Swarthmore again won the intercollegiate lacrosse championship of the United States when she easily defeated Johns Hopkins university Saturday, 16 to 4.

Speculation is rife at Columbia over the delay in the issue of the football schedule. It has been learned that an effort is being made to arrange a game with Princeton, either on November 11 or 18. One date will probably go to Princeton and the other to Cornell. This will mean a severe month in football for Columbia. Yale is scheduled for November 4 and Pennsylvania for November 25.

The fourth annual interscholastic meet of Dickinson college was held Saturday. Mercersburg captured first place, with a total of 52 points; Dickinson Preparatory was second, with 48 points; Harrisburg High school scored 25, and Carlisle High school 1 point.

JEFFRIES KNOCKED OUT.

Not by a Wallop, but by Rheumatism and Malaria.

CHICAGO, May 14.—James J. Jeffries, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, has been knocked out. Disease accomplished what no human being was ever able to do. A combination of rheumatism and malaria has put the pugilist out of the fighting game for all time, according to Jeffries, who, cancelling all engagements, tonight, started for Los Angeles to try to regain his health. In the future it is Jeffries intention to devote his time to several mining claims which he and a brother possess in Arizona.

Harvard Crew Prospects Bad.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., May 14.—(Special.)—Never in the history of rowing at Harvard have the prospects for a winning crew been worse than at present. Shift after shift has been tried by Coach Wray and Capt. Filley, but it still is impossible to tell who will sit in the eight-oared shell in the championship races. The first big race takes place a week from next Saturday with Cornell on the Charles river in a two-mile event. As the big race with Yale is more than six weeks away Capt. Filley promises to have his crew well seasoned before going to New London.

Opens Twilight Season.

The Bedford club will begin its twilight season playing the Acorn team.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE INDEPENDENT PLAYERS

The Fairmont (W. Va.) team mobilized in Pittsburgh yesterday. Secretary Marshal Asheroft of Fairmont met Manager C. D. Cassell of Freeport and his players yesterday morning and in the afternoon all left for Fairmont. The players are: Roy Duff, shortstop; Jack Snedden, Grove City, third; Art Lang, Salinesville, O., second; Jim Connor, Washington Courthouse, O., first; Charles Gibbs, Fairmont, left; Harry West, Cleveland, middle. The pitching staff consists of Reed of Freeport, Helmick of Wadsworth, O.; White of Marietta, O.; Gray of Carnegie, Kennedy of Coatesville, Pa., and Nolan of Scranton.

John Sixsmith, the local first baseman, has joined the Hornellsville (N. Y.) club of the Southern Tier league. Jack Davies, pitcher and infielder, has joined the Olean team of the same league.

Bill Johnson, the veteran and experienced pitcher of Homestead, bids fair to become one of the most popular players on the circuit. He can say more funny things on the coaching line than any other man in the business.

Secretary Young of the Cumberland (Md.) team wants the Pittsburgh collegians to pitch Don Doyle in one of the games they play there this summer. Manager Tate is a warm admirer of Doyle.

Mark Hogan will bring his champion Youngstown team to this section this week, playing at Homestead Wednesday and Thursday and at McKeesport the rest of the week.

Dink Boyle, infielder, is home from the Cumberland league and wants a job.

McKeesport has joined the Independent association.

Tom Negley has signed with the Wilkinsburg Independents to play third.

Youngstown claims Crum, the McKeesport middle fielder. Hogan claims he accepted Crum's terms last winter.

William ("Buck") Washer, last year with Brandywine, who was given a trial with Philadelphia this season, has signed with Coatesville.

Rudolph of Williamsport, who sprained a tendon in his ankle, is still on crutches, but expects to soon get in the game again. His stick work is sorely needed.

Two pitchers, big men preferred, can be placed by calling upon the editor of amateur sports of The Gazette.

Shortstop McGrew, late of the Louisville team, is expected to join Youngstown today.

Dutch Crum saved McKeesport from a defeat Saturday by collecting Mathay's hard drive and catching a Homestead runner at home who attempted to score on the hit.

"Bill" Johnson's wallop to the fence in the ninth inning was the hardest I ever got my hands on," said Walter Orbin last night. "Homestead is hitting hard enough, but the drives do not seem to reach the fences.

Eli Hassel, the Homestead pitcher, is mourning the loss of a diamond pin, which was lost or stolen.

Jimmy McClaren is fielding well and hitting timely for McKeesport.

Frank Eastley will probably pitch the first game against Youngstown at Homestead. Eastley is doing grand work. His excellent showing is the talk over the circuit, particularly in the Tri-State.

Frank Killen's Sharon collection is hitting. Three doubles and one triple were made on drives past third base against Wilkinsburg. Frank Venning, the Wilkinsburg catcher, said Sharon hit everything send up.

Russell Morgan, the Brackenridge outfielder and catcher of last year's Johnstown team, who was recently turned over to the Harrisburg club in the Tri-State, has quit the latter club, owing to a disagreement with Manager Hamilton, and will join the Risher ranks at Homestead this morning.

Hans Lobert, the Pittsburgh boy playing at Johnstown, Saturday received a telegram from the Des Moines team of the Western league asking him to join that club at once and at his own terms. Lobert said he was satisfied with Johnstown and the team and he refused to even answer the telegram.

Kid Hagen, who beat Sandherr out for the position of shortstop on the Johnstown team, is improving daily in his work, his hitting growing more timely and hard. Pitchers Lipp and Sweeney of the same team are rapidly rounding into shape and are taking their regular turns in the box.

Cargo of York holds the individual batting record for the Tri-State for the season with four triples and a homer, and George McConnell of last year's Wheeling team, now with Johnstown, is second with a homer, a triple and two singles. McConnell's homer was the longest ever seen on the Lebanon grounds.

Football Relations Renewed.

MADISON, WIS., May 14.—(Special.)—The Wisconsin and Chicago football teams will meet in Madison on October 21. This was decided at a conference between Coach Stagg and Graduate Manager Bowser. Northwestern was scheduled to meet Chicago on October 21, but relinquished the date to Wisconsin and took October 28 instead. The Wisconsin schedule will end with the game with Michigan at Ann Arbor on November 18.

THOMAS IS TOO STRONG FOR MASSILLON BATTERS

MASSILLON, O., May 14.—(Special.)—Youngstown with Tommy Thomas and his spit ball working, defeated Massillon 8 to 3 today, in a game marred by poor fielding by the locals. Shaffer pitched well for Massillon. Score:

										R.	H.	E.
Massillon	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	2	—3	6	5
Youngstown	1	1	2	0	2	0	2	0	0	—8	9	0

Batteries—Shaffer and Godie and Devenny; T. Thomas and Hardy.

NEWARK, O., May 14.—(Special.)—Rain stopped the Newark-Lancaster game in the seventh inning today. Lancaster having earned a run in the fourth inning. Score:

Batteries—Lancaster, Johns and Winter; Newark, Purcell and Snodgrass.

ZANESVILLE, O., May 14.—(Special.)—On wet grounds Zanesville took over Mt. Vernon this afternoon, 7 to 6. Crutcher, the new local pitcher from Pittsburgh, did pretty slab work except in the sixth inning. Score:

Zanesville	2	0	0	4	1	0	0	0	0	—7	10	3
Mt. Vernon	2	0	0	0	0	4	0	0	0	—6	11	2

Batteries—Crutcher and Blue; Lillie, Collins and Iger.

GILLEN, BALL PLAYER, DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Samuel Gillen, the once well-known Allegheny ball player, will be buried this afternoon from his late residence, 1311 James street, Allegheny. Gillen died Saturday of pneumonia. He was aged 37 years and single, being survived by his parents.

Gillen was an infielder, and at one time a member of the Pittsburgh team. He started his professional career in 1891, playing at Erie in the New York and Pennsylvania league. He later played with Quincy, Olean, Macon, Ga., Pittsburgh for a short while in 1895, Detroit, Philadelphia Nationals, closing at Ft. Wayne in the Tri-State league under George Tebeau. A bad ankle caused his retirement from the diamond. Gillen was a fine batsman, and extremely popular with players and patrons.

State Calls Off Dual.

ANNAPOLIS, May 14.—(Special.)—The dual field and track meet which was to be held here on Saturday next between the midshipmen and Pennsylvania State college has been cancelled at the request of the latter. A dual meet has been scheduled for the same date between the midshipmen and a team from Lehigh university. The institutions have never met at this branch of sport or in any branch for some years, a disagreement in a football game some seasons ago straining their relations somewhat.

COURTS MAY DOOM GUN CLUBS

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., May 14.—(Special.)—If the Illinois supreme court sustains the decision of the third appellate in the Schulte case from Mason county, the hundreds of thousands of dollars invested by the wealthy residents of Chicago and other cities of the state and states adjoining, including a number from St. Louis, in the private fishing and hunting preserves along the Illinois river and tributary lakes, will be utterly without value.

The decision, which is of interest not only in this state, but all over the United States, holds that owners of submerged lands along navigable rivers are not the owners of the fishing and hunting rights along the stream in question, but that the right is vested in the public. Central Illinois followers of the gun and rod have been deeply interested in this decision, and it is variously viewed, some holding it just, while others denounce it.

TWO PERSONS PERISH WHEN YACHT CAPSIZES

Brave Effort to Prevent Girl Drowning Fails—Life Saving Crew Rescues Two of the Party.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, May 14.—Matilda Buettgen, 21 years old, and Charles Henderson, 17 years old, were drowned in Lake Michigan today, off Lincoln park, by the capsizing of a yacht in which they were sailing. Edward Bodmer and Daniel Moheiser, who were also in the yacht, were rescued by a life-saving crew.

The capsizing of the yacht was caused by the main sheets becoming entangled with the tiller. The boat became unmanageable and all four occupants were thrown into the water. Bodmer, who is a good swimmer, got Miss Buettgen back to the yacht, which was lying upside down.

Placing her on the upturned boat, Bodmer brought Moheiser safely to the yacht, but in the meantime a wave had washed Miss Buettgen into the water and she was drowned. Henderson, who was unable to swim, sank immediately after the boat capsized.

DISCUSSES THE LAW OF SPIRITUAL GROWTH

The Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge Compares It to Results of Seed-Sowing.

"The Law of Spiritual Growth" was the sermon theme of the Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge, in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church yesterday morning. The pastor likened the spiritual growth to the growth following the seed-sowing of the farmer, and said in part:

The farmer has two very busy seasons in the year, the seedtime and the harvest. We too often forget that the farmers are the backbone of the United States. These industrious men are the most necessary class of citizens for the growth and prosperity of America. They are sowing the seed for the colossal harvest. They have been preparing the soil, and they have the faith in providence and nature to commit millions of bushels of grain to die under the soil. The farmer waits patiently for results. After the farmer has sown his winter or spring wheat he has done his part. Then nature must do her part. The rest must be done by the seasons, the soil, sunshine, dew, heat and cold. Growth is a process which cannot be hastened. The farmer teaches a lesson to the world in patience and faith. He believes that a harvest will eventually come. He has no feverish anxiety. He can sleep soundly.

As Christian men and women we must have the same faith in the progress of the Kingdom of God in our own souls and also in human society. The growth of goodness in the individual and in the human race is slow and gradual. Reformers are often too impatient and fussy. They wish to set this world right in a day. Reformers often scold too much. They have not learned the philosophy of growth in the kingdom of truth. We must learn to labor and must learn with the farmer to wait for results.

Christ gave a wonderful lesson to reformers, teachers, parents and preachers by His own life of faith and patience. Christ did not reform the world in his day. But he sowed good seed like the farmer. And he waited for the results. Christian civilization is a slow, painful and gradual process. Life and growth are deep mysteries to all men. The agriculturist, who sows the seed and watches the waving fields of grain does not understand the mysteries of life and growth. He does not know how a seed germinates. The germination and growth are beyond his control. The farmer cannot control the growth of a field of wheat.

How mysterious is the beginning of divine life in a human soul! When a soul receives the new birth he has witnessed a miracle. All life is a miracle. But how transcendent is the miracle when a man hates his sin and asks God for pardon. We should stand in holy awe and reverence whenever we see a human being seeking after God and righteousness. There are three periods of spiritual growth in the Christian. There is the period of beginning of divine life in the soul—the period of emotion. There is sorrow for sin and joy in pardon. There is the green ear period. There is development, but it is still unripe fruit. Then the period of ripeness. There is the full corn in the ear of maturity. It is happiness in holiness, love, joy, peace, unselfishness, love of mankind.

Former Allegheny Minister Resigns.

UNIONTOWN, May 14.—At this morning's service at the Central Christian church the resignation of the Rev. Herbert Yeuell was accepted by the congregation and the Rev. J. W. Carpenter of Indianapolis, Ind., was elected pastor to succeed him. He will assume charge in June. Mr. Yeuell will re-enter evangelistic work under the Virginia state board. He was formerly pastor of the Shady Avenue Christian church, Allegheny.

SUNDAY GAZETTE OFFERS MANY PLEASING FEATURES

News, Features, Fiction and Pictures Were of a Standard in Advance Even of Former Numbers.

The excellent standard set by The Sunday Gazette was admirably sustained in yesterday's number. The pictorial section was peculiarly entertaining and the class of fiction and feature stores were, if anything, better than one generally encounters in the Sunday magazine sections. The Gazette's far-reaching news service, as usual, covered every field.

Secretary Hay has intimated that both Russia and Japan would welcome the mediatorship of President Roosevelt in the interest of peace. A dispatch to a Paris newspaper stated that a nurse tried to scald to death the heir to the Russian throne, but was prevented by the czarina. Discussion of the German-American tariff relations showed that the German people endorsed the policy of their government. The French foreign office is convinced that Japan has designs on India-China. Americans will propose a plan to abolish war at the meeting of the inter-parliamentary union which convenes today in Brussels.

Authorities at Newton, Kan., expressed their conviction that Herbert V. Croker was drugged and robbed. A. C. Bird, vice president and traffic director of the Gould lines, declared before the senate committee on inter-state commerce that railroad rates are low by comparison. Chairman Burton of the rivers and harbors committee of congress, in a speech at Cincinnati, said he would oppose giving any more money to the Monongahela until the Ohio has been improved. Hiram Cronk, last survivor of the war of 1812, died at the age of 105 years. The designs have been published for the magnificent buildings to be built by Andrew Carnegie for the Associated Societies of Engineers in New York at a cost of over $1,000,000.

A monument erected on the spot where the first court was held west of the Monongahela river will be dedicated soon in Washington county and Gov. Pennypacker will participate in the exercises. A stonemason at Oil City who had studied hypnotism becomes self-hypnotized whenever he gazes at an artificial light. Gov. Pennypacker disposed of the general appropriation bill by cutting a total of $971,820 from the various items. Frank W. Anderson of Pittsburgh died at Harrisburg as a result of injuries sustained in the wreck. Controller Larkin will attend the Democratic state convention and his boom for governor may be launched. Miss Edith Isabella Gibney was awarded $18,925 damages in her breach of promise suit against Klaus J. Steiner. Grant and Liberty Street Railway Company argued for a bill of particulars in the quo warranto proceedings of the Voters' Civic league asking the names of councilmen accused of selling their votes. Funeral services were held over the remains of Victor L. Crabbe and Paul Bright, victims of the Pennsylvania railroad wreck at Harrisburg. Bond money voted 10 years ago for a fire boat to be used for an engine house. Gov. Pennypacker's veto has deprived many hospitals of thousands in appropriations.

Brooklyn took the opening game of the series from the Pirates. Shadyside won from the University school of Cleveland by a score of 7 to 0. McKeesport won from Homestead 2 to 1. Cornell beat Princeton in an extra inning game. The Brunswicks and Unity teams roll-off for the championship in the County Bowling league.

The stock market was dull and heavy, prices closing near the lowest. The weekly bank statement showed a large increase in loans and a decrease in surplus reserves. July wheat jumped over 2 cents a bushel.

LAY THE STONE WITH ELABORATE CEREMONIES

Many Denominations and Organizations Attend a Rankin Borough Church Service.

Unusual services marked the corner stone laying of the First Methodist Protestant church at Rankin yesterday afternoon. In sympathy with overtures now being made between the general bodies of the Methodist Protestant, United Brethren and Congregational denominations, with a view to unification, clergymen representing each of these denominations were present and took part in the exercises. The Rev. William F. Slade of Braddock represented the Congregational church, the Rev. Charles C. Miller of Braddock represented the United Brethren church, and the Rev. Dr. C. F. Swift of Beaver Falls, president of the Pittsburgh conference of the Methodist Protestant church, delivered the principal address.

Another feature of the service was the representation of delegates from secret societies in which the pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. George H. Sission, holds membership. Among the societies represented were Melrose commandery, Knights of Malta, Rankin; Valetta commandery 129, Knights of Malta, Braddock; Turtle Creek lodge, Knights of the Golden Eagle, and Braddock's Field lodge 529, Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Braddock. Following addresses by representatives of the fraternal orders, addresses were made by members of the Rankin borough council and the Rankin borough school board, while John S. Donnellon, burgess of Rankin and secretary of the school board, delivered an address on behalf of the borough.

The congregation was formed in Braddock 17 years ago and until November of last year worshiped in a frame church at Sixth and Margaretta streets, Braddock. This building was sold to the St. Mark of Mt. Carmel Italian Roman Catholic church for $16,000, since when the congregation has held services in Odd Fellows' hall, Braddock. The new church will cost $25,000 and will be the first Protestant church in Rankin. It is being built at Kenmawr avenue and Fourth street.

ADDRESSES GRADUATES.

Senior Class of Allegheny Theological Seminary Hears Baccalaureate Sermon.

Before the united congregations of the Shadyside and First United Presbyterian churches and a large gathering of visitors, the Rev. Dr. John A. Wilson of the faculty of the Allegheny United Presbyterian Theological seminary delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of that institution last night.

The three classes of students were present and were seated in front of the pulpit, while the faculty attended in a body. The pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. J. K. McClurkin, delivered a short address.

Announces Resignation.

The Rev. F. N. Foster, pastor of the Knoxville Methodist Protestant church, announced his resignation from that pastorate yesterday morning, to take effect at the end of the present conference year. The pastor did not announce his future plans. He has been in charge of the congregation for six years, during which time 164 members have been added to the church.

Celebrate Their Anniversary.

The sixteenth anniversary of the founding of the Epworth league was observed by all local societies in their churches yesterday. Special exercises marked the event, while in many instances pastors of Methodist Episcopal churches devoted their evening sermons to a review of the work and the further possibilities of the league.

Occupies His New Pulpit.

The Rev. George J. Gongaware, formerly of Warren, Pa., and recently elected associate pastor of the First English Lutheran church, Grant street, occupied the pulpit of the First church for the first time yesterday. In the morning he preached on "Mutual Obligations" and in the evening spoke on "Christian Comfort."

PROVIDES MOORE WITH HOME FOR SIX MONTHS

James Moore was sentenced to serve six months in the workhouse by Magistrate Kane at No. 5 police station yesterday morning. Moore was arrested Saturday night on a charge of vagrancy.

HOLDS ONE PASTORATE TWENTY-FIVE YEARS

The Rev. Dr. John H. Prugh Celebrates the Silver Anniversary of His Ministry.

Before large congregations, yesterday morning and evening, the Rev. Dr. John Hassler Prugh, pastor of Grace Reformed church, celebrated the 25th anniversary of his pastorate and his ordination as well.

The handsome auditorium of the church at Dithridge and Bayard streets was further beautified with a profusion of flowers and potted plants. Special musical programs were carried out, and in the evening Gounod's sacred cantata, "Gallia," was presented. A feature of the morning service was the reading of some of the scores of letters and telegrams of congratulation to the pastor, by Alexander M. Voigt, a member of the consistory.

The theme of Dr. Prugh's morning sermon was "A Preacher's Ruling Purpose in a Quarter of a Century." His text was I. Corinthians xv:1-4, and he said in part:

My heart is glad with a great gladness today. By the favor of a loving, heavenly Father, I am permitted to round out 25 years as a preacher of the gospel. And through God's love and yours, it has been given me to spend those years, largely, as a preacher in the pulpit of Grace church.

The preacher is only a voice. It is not the voice that counts, but the message. To be a voice, with a message, for 25 years, in a city like Pittsburgh, and in a church like Grace church—that has been a most blessed privilege. I have, though, had my humiliations, too. And one of the most humiliating things, to me, about the past 25 years, is, that I was not better able to efface myself, and make my message stand out more prominently. I am keenly conscious of my limitations, and often I have thought how much more a stronger, wiser, better man might have made of the glorious opportunities which God and you gave me in this quarter of a century.

But from the beginning of my ministry until now, my purpose is summed up in the words of our text. They express what I have, at least, tried to do. And I do not believe I can do better than reiterate that purpose, on this anniversary day.

Three things stand out prominently in this scripture, namely, what the gospel is; what the gospel does for us, and what we should do with the gospel. Paul, the writer of this scripture, believed the gospel to be this, that Christ died for our sins, and that He was buried and that He rose for our justification, to bring us into oneness with God. No wonder the gospel is called good news. There is no glad, good news like it.

I know full well wherein I have failed as a preacher of the gospel. But I am bold enough today to appeal to you, especially you who have been longest members of Grace church, and to ask you whether or not you think I have tried, in my ministry, to keep true to the key-note which Paul struck in this text. I believe you will say I have. And I am profoundly thankful to God for all the years during which your love and confidence have borne with my limitations and have never failed.

We have had five and twenty years, with scarcely a ruffle or a jar. And, thank God, the tie binding us together is as strong as ever. I have had many rare, rich privileges in the past quarter of a century, and many undeserved honors, but the greatest is this—that God's love and yours makes it possible for me to continue as a preacher of the gospel in this dear Grace church pulpit. And I am fondly hoping and praying that, in the new year upon which we now enter, my ministry may be more efficient than it has been in any of the past years. It ought to be—with your sympathy, love and prayers. May God's rich benediction rest upon you! God bless you! God bless you!

With the exception of the Rev. Dr. E. R. Donehoo of the West End Presbyterian church, Dr. Prugh's pastorate is the oldest in the city. Dr. Prugh holds a prominent place in his denomination and for the past three years has held the office of president of the general synod of the Reformed church in the United States, which holds its annual meeting in Allentown, Pa., beginning Tuesday, when Dr. Prugh will preside and preach the opening sermon.

WOMAN KEEPS SECRET MORE THAN 50 YEARS

NEWBURG, N. Y., May 14.—Mrs. Henrietta Robinson, 80 years old, who was known as the veiled murderess, died at the Matteawan State hospital today. She was convicted of the murder of Timothy Lanigan and Catherine Lubee in Troy in 1853. During the trial she wore a heavy veil. At the close of the trial she drew the veil for an instant and smiling to the jury, again drew it. She was sentenced to be hanged on June 19, 1853. Her sentence was afterward commuted. Once she said she belonged to the British royal family, and this is all she ever told.

HOME MISSION REPORT READY

United Presbyterian Church Makes Excellent Showing in Year Ending March 31.

WILL INVADE THE SOUTH

The Rev. Dr. Alexander Gilchrist, secretary of the board of home missions of the United Presbyterian church in America, leaves this morning for Crawfordsville, Ia., to attend the meeting of the committee on missions of the general assembly of the church this week. The general assembly convenes next week. A large delegation of local clergymen and laymen will leave for the assembly tomorrow morning.

The report of the home mission board for the past year is flattering. In the membership of missions there was a total increase of 3,468. Accessions by profession were 1,708, and the net gain 2,122, or 12 per cent. This is the best showing made by the board in any one year. During the year 17 new missions were established and 13 congregations became self-supporting.

The board has given special attention in exploring and entering upon new fields, and in this connection has been desirous for some years to take up work among the mountaineers of the south. Arrangements have been concluded to enter into this field this summer. Moses Hay and his sister, Georgie, of West Chester, Ia., graduates of the Moody institute of Chicago, have been selected as pioneer missionaries.

Work Among the Mormons.

As directed by the last general assembly, the board has co-operated during the year with the Utah Gospel mission in furnishing financial aid for work among the Mormons. Workers have been sent out to travel by wagon from place to place, holding gospel meetings and distributing literature among the Mormons. This work is to be enlarged upon this year. The report calls attention to the necessity of work among foreigners in this country, over half of whom, the report states, locate in New York and Pennsylvania. A mission for Belgians and the French has been established in McDonald, Pa., and two missions have been established among the Italians in Pittsburgh.

Among statistics for the year ended March 31 the following figures are shown: Stations granted aid, 244; presbyteries represented, 58; communicants, 17,625; teachers, 1,997; scholars, 23,327; contributions to boards, $26,020; salaries to pastors, $82,736; appropriations, $123,034; payments to presbyteries, $107,248; entire expenditures for the year, $111,559.

The report acknowledges valuable assistance from the Women Auxiliary board, which had special supervision over the work among Indians, and has been working among the foreigners in the Pittsburgh district.

Congregations Should Help Themselves.

The board calls attention in its report to the fact that congregations receiving aid from the board are expected to contribute to the support of their ministers to the full extent of their ability, and announces that it has been found that the average congregation will not do so unless pressure is brought to bear to that end. It is much easier to ask for a grant than to put forth the necessary effort to raise money at home, and the tendency in too many cases is to ask for more than is really needed or deserved.

The report shows that during the year $79,688 25 was received from the presbyteries from the following sources: Congregations, $68,280 51; Sabbath schools, $6,114 60; Young Peoples' and Ladies' Mite societies, $1,134 09; individuals, $3,261 00; legacies, $897 45.

Direct receipts were as follows: Young Peoples' and Sabbath schools, $80 50; individuals, $3,194 25; legacies, $12,786 98; investments, $3,158 10; balance from last year, $872 12, making the full receipts for the year $99,820 19, as against $105,659 96 in 1904.

The deficit for the year was $11,738 80, and general assembly is asked to meet this deficit and provide for an enlargement of the work. For the coming year 58 presbyteries ask for $134,575, or $12,200 more than last year. Grants aggregating $20,400 are asked by 23 new stations.

The terms of the following members of the board expire on June 30 of this year and reappointments will have to be made by the general assembly: George M. Reed, Dr. J. W. English, Dr. H. W. Temple and Dr. Alexander Gilchrist.

WILL REMEMBER EVERY VETERAN

Captain Alfred E. Hunt Camp Will Decorate Graves of Victims of Spanish War.

DEAD IN MANY CEMETERIES

Every veteran of the Spanish-American war, every soldier who served in the campaign in the Philippines, whose remains lie interred in Allegheny county, will be remembered by their surviving comrades on Memorial day. The details for thus perpetuating the memories of those who sacrificed their lives or whose deaths occurred by reason of impaired health in distant climes, will be looked after by Capt. Alfred E. Hunt camp, United Spanish War Veterans, from which a committee to complete the arrangements, has been appointed. This committee consists of George E. Forrest, chairman; A. G. Lloyd, secretary; Clinton C. Bundy, Joseph H. Sorg and Daniel B. Sullivan. This committee will be assisted by many details from the camp, as the graves lie in 19 different cemeteries in the county.

The camp, since its organization, has lost six members by death, but they will be accorded only the same tribute of affection as that bestowed on the graves of any soldier of either campaign, whether a member of the camp or not. The list of the dead in possession of the camp is surprisingly large, when the brief period since the outbreak of the war is considered. The list is as follows:

Allegheny Cemetery—Norman M. Smith, colonel Eighteenth P. V. I.; Alfred E. Hunt, captain Battery B., P. V. A.; Howard S. Hays, sergeant Company K, Fourteenth P. V. I.; Harmon D. Rolfe, Company A, Eighteenth P. V. I.; Sylvia E. Coffin, an army nurse; William M. Aul, first lieutenant Company A, Eighteenth P. V. I.; William H. BOND DIVISION THE BEST FEATURE OF THE MARKET

Wall Street Reflects the Easier Conditions of Time Money and Marks the Commencement of the Reinvestment Demands.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 14.—Contraction in the volume of business and irregular price movements was the response made by Wall street during the week to the conflicting news developments and diversified market influences. Prices averaged higher at the close, despite the backing and filling of the general list during the interval, and the disappointing session of Saturday.

Unquestionably the best feature of the market was found in the strength of the bond division and in the somewhat better inquiry for investments. This was probably a reflection of the easier conditions of the time money market and marks the commencement of the reinvestment demand, anticipatory of the July disbursements. It has been rather clearly demonstrated in recent years that either dealers or large investors, either institutions or individuals, do not wait until after interest and dividends are distributed to make their investments.

When it is possible and profitable to do so, such purchases are anticipated. Twice a year, as the heavy disbursing periods draw near, the speculator's imagination is fixed upon the glowing tales of the tremendous activity and booming advances which will take place when various corporations dump huge sums of money into investors' laps. Again and again comes the wail, thereafter, that the "reinvestment demand failed to materialize." The only reason that it does not materialize in reasonably normal times, is that it has taken place already. It is always anticipated to some extent in times of easy money, when it is more advantageous to utilize credit and buy bonds than to loan on stock collateral or await the precise period for disbursement.

It is, to be sure, only the awakening of a movement that Wall street detected during the last week, but is a reassuring sign to persons who guage their operations by actual conditions and real developments and leave absurd "deal and rumor" yarns to shift for themselves. Such a movement may not be continuous, and they do not of necessity foreshadow immediate marked improvement in stock speculation. They may give a curtain sustaining force to the speculative game, but the investor is not influenced by the same considerations as the speculator. More often than not, and usually after a severe collapse in prices of the speculative market that influences an improvement in the investment divisions. The snares and pitfalls of speculation have been made clear and a man seeks security and an assured income rather than the promise of great gain, which carries with it the possibility of an equally great loss.

The course of the investment market will be watched with great interest from now on, chiefly in view of the light which it is expected to throw upon the actual sentiment of the most important and influential element in the community, the great bankers, corporation managers and investors in relation to some of the great problems of the future. The harvest will determine many things, and its outcome is by no means assured, despite the fine promises. But, leaving that aside for the present, there are other problems in the market, the important influence of which can be far better determined, by the action of experienced, far-sighted men in relation to their investments, than by anything done by the wild plungers, the manipulators and the trading crew in the speculative market. These latter men will sell as readily as they buy, praise a property one day and damn it the next, declare a "deal" on or off, with equal facility, and to suit their own ends and aims. They are unsafe guides.

Despite the irregular higher range of stock prices last week the interval was one of disappointment, clearly indicating that public confidence has not as yet been restored. The dealings were very largely of a professional nature, and when left to itself by the manipulators and the pools and cliques the market lapsed into dullness and prices melted away. Apparently the chief source of buying was the professional short interest, and the bursts of activity were certainly machine made, devised for the purpose of driving in the shorts and to create, if possible, a change in sentiment. Whether such tactics as the violent upbidding of a limited group of issues, accompanied by a revival of nearly all the "deal and rumor" stories, are calculated to restore shattered confidence is highly doubtful. One thing is certain, however, the method will not restore to the pockets of the slaughtered innocents the money filched from them by such devices in the recent past.

General conditions and market influences, in fact, appear more favorable than for a long time to the maintenance of an old time "summer market," such as Wall street was familiar with on former days, when the "big men" enjoyed well-earned vacations and the trading element was left to disport itself among securities, moving them up and down within a limited range until such time as the lowest prospects were reasonably well determined and the "big men" returned to take hold of things again.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK IN THE LOCAL MARKETS

The feature of the local markets last week was the heavy cut in sugar, the price dropping in a single day from $6 25 to $6 05 in barrels and 100-pound bags. The price has been maintained at the high figure for months, the advance beginning just before the Christmas holidays. There was a scarcity of raw sugar and the refiners raised this as a lever to raise the quotations. Foreign sugar was threatening the domestic market and to offset this came the heavy cut. Wholesalers are not yet certain whether the market has touched bottom or not.

Flour stiffened up greatly during the week and the price advanced some. This was due to the advance in the price of July wheat. Northwestern mills have been doing a fair business the past week, better than for months. Some trouble was experienced with buyers who had bought at the recent high figures and wanted to cancel their orders when the bottom dropped out. Some suits were entered and the matter has now been adjusted.

The green goods market was in a state of apathy all the week. Business is not nearly so brisk as the dealers would like to see it and there has been no material change in prices all week. No novelties have been received and the condition of the market is very quiet.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts of hay and grain Saturday were as follows: Pennsylvania, 7 cars hay, 3 cars oats, 12 cars corn, Pennsylvania, 6 cars hay, 5 cars oats, 1 car corn, Baltimore & Ohio, 3 cars hay, 2 cars oats, 1 car straw.

As the week drew to a close a firmer feeling became evident in the market in all lines of grain and hay, and prices seem still inclined to a further advance. The heavy receipts have dropped off, leaving the supply and demand more nearly on a par, which is a better thing for trade. The grain exchange is now located in its new home, Penn avenue and Tenth street, and the prediction that business would improve after the members got settled there seems to be fully warranted by the results.

In the Oil fields.

After all the efforts that have been made to discover new pools in the lower southwest, it fell to the lot, strange as it may seem, of old Butler county to supply the first real sensational discovery of the year. It would have been regarded as a stretch of the imagination, bordering on the ridiculous, for one to predict the drilling in of a well in any part of that county that could show a production of 100 barrels an hour and keep it up for any considerable time. Yet that was the very pleasing experience of McBride and others when they drilled down an old 100-foot gasser on the O. K. Waldron farm, located about three miles almost due west of Butler, and nearly the same distance north of McCalmont station, on the Pittsburgh & Western railroad. Not in some years has any other strike aroused so much interest among operators in the southwest fields.

The Waldron farm well was the first and only producer of any considerable size that Butler county has had to offer for some years, although there has been more or less of an effort made to find new pools. Now and then the striking of a well above the average in size has inspired new hope, but it was soon dissipated by the completion of light pumpers and more disasters in the immediate vicinity. It was at first thought that the new attachment would go the same way, but the way it has been holding up and the liberal bonus money that has been paid for leases in that locality, and by old and experienced operators, would naturally lead to the conclusion that they are willing to back their faith in the territory with big money.

The scarcity of new producing territory may be responsible in part for the lavish way operators have drawn on their bank accounts for the money to secure small leases. When it is stated that as much as $5,000 was paid for a single lease for a tract of 40 acres it will be understood the land owner has for the time being been something of an autocrat. He is in such position that he will not need to worry over the prospects of a full crop nor whether or not the oil operator to whom he has leased his land will harvest profitable oil holes, if producers follow, such as the McBride number, he will in the course of gather in dollars that he could not have expected to accumulate in a life-time in tickling the soil with a plow and harrow.

Now that the preliminaries and all of the adjacent territory, and for many miles in addition, have been disposed of, nothing remains but to open the prize packages and learn how the distribution of the prizes and blanks are placed in the pool and surrounding territory. Within a week there will be a dozen rigs under way and then a little of the old-time vigor will be witnessed in the eagerness to get down to the producing formation. There will be no end of rivalry among contractors to see what they can bring in the first well. In more than one instance there will be a bonus for the contractor, and hats and suits of clothes for the drillers and tool dressers who can complete his job within a stipulated time. It is well understood that the first few wells completed can be expected to find a place in the gusher class. It is safe to predict that no other well completed in the pool will have a production that will equal that of the McBride well, which started at 100 barrels an hour and now, at the end of the fifth day, is holding up at 40 barrels an hour.

The big well in Butler county so completely overshadowed developments in the lower southwest that interest during the week was lost except to those directly interested in the wells completed in the West Virginia and southeastern Ohio fields. At any rate, there were few of them and, being small and unimportant as to location that those who had their attention diverted did not miss much.

The deep sand districts in West Virginia made an unusually poor showing. Not a well completed in any of the districts had an initial production of 100 barrels the first 24 hours. Light producers and dusters was the best that could be found. In the Littleton, Smithfield and Pine Grove districts in Wetzel county there are many of the old wells now drilling from the Big Injun, in which they were once profitable producers, to the lower sands. In some instances very fair wells have been secured in the Gordon and fifth sands. In a number of wells drilled down for lower formations have been found barren.

Shooting the old wells is generally practiced in the deep sand districts. In the 50-foot development, west of Mannington, Marion county, the Freshold Oil and Gas Company gave its No. 1 on the Benjamin Grubb farm its first dose of the high explosive fluid and the result was satisfactory, increasing its production to 450 barrels a day. Like others in the district, it did not hold up at that speed for more than a day, and within a few weeks will be down to what it was producing before shot.

Over in the Salem district, Harrison county, there were several completions and the best not good for more than 20 barrels a day. This district has at this time more work of an experimental kind under way than any other deep sand development. A considerable portion of the new work is located on lots, on Salem Fork, in Ten Mile district.

The shallow sand districts made a poor showing. The best well completed did not have a production of more than 10 barrels a day, except in the Yellow Creek district, Calhoun county. This district continues to furnish some very nice wells. The South Penn got one on the Clark Camden farm that started at 90 barrels a day.

In trying for an extension the Cresco Oil Company went across the county line into Gilmer county and drilled a test on the Radabaugh farms. When the sand was reached only a strong gas pressure was encountered and the well will not be drilled deeper at present.

There was little development of interest on the Ohio side. In the Macksburg field, Washington county, where there has been an effort making since last year to open a Gordon pool, another duster was drilled in on the A. J. Longfellow farm, making three since the producer was completed.

Southeast of Jerusalem, Monroe county, the Southern Oil Company completed a second test on the W. E. Moore farm and got a 20-barrel pumper in the Big Lime. This is the fourth well completed in this development.

Are Suspected of Robbery.

H. B. Brown and Joseph Gorman of 224 Isabella street, Allegheny, are locked up in the North Side Central station charged with being suspicious persons. It is alleged that on May 11 a man who stayed all night at the house was robbed of all his money, a gold watch and a railroad ticket. The police say Brown sold a pawn ticket for a watch to John Lofink on Saturday.

COAL PRODUCTION IS LESS IN 1904

This Is Due to Abnormal Output in 1903 Following the Strike of 1902.

STATISTICS AS TO ANTHRACITE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 14.

Practically complete returns to the United States geological survey for 1904, as collected by Mr. Edward W. Parker, statistician, show that the production of coal last year amounted to 351,196,953 short tons, having a total value at the mines of $445,613,528. Compared with 1903 this shows a falling off of 6,159,463 short tons in quantity, and of $58,080,853 in value. This decrease, although proportionately large in the figures of value, does not indicate any interruption to the generally prosperous conditions which have prevailed during the last eight years. It was simply a natural reaction from the abnormal activity which had been maintained throughout the coal mining regions in 1903, due to the exhaustion of all coal stocks on hand by the memorable strike of 1902.

In order to renew the coal stocks and at the same time to provide fuel for immediate use, the coal mines in 1903 were pushed to their utmost capacity, or, one should probably say, to the capacity of the railroads to handle the output. As a result the enormous production of 357,356,416 short tons was recorded. Prices raised high by the famine of 1902 remained high for a large part of the year, and the total value of coal at the mines, before any expense of transportation or selling costs had been added, amounted to $503,724,381, an increase of $136,600,000 over that of 1902.

Exhibits Normal Increase.

The production in 1904, while less than that of 1903 by 6,159,463 short tons, exhibits a normal increase when compared with the annual production during the 10 preceding years. The average price for all coal mined and sold in 1904 was $1.27, as compared with $1.41 in 1903, and $1.22 in 1902.

The statistics for the production of anthracite in Pennsylvania, which are complete, show that the output in 1904 amounted to 65,318,490 long tons (equivalent to 73,156,709 short tons), valued, at the mines, at $135,974,020, as compared with 66,613,454 long tons (or 74,607,068 short tons), valued at $152,056,448 in 1903. The decrease in production in 1904, therefore, amounted to 1,294,964 long tons (or 1,450,359 short tons), while the falling off in gross revenue amounted to $18,082,428. Of the total production of Pennsylvania anthracite in 1904, 57,727,178 long tons were shipped to market, 1,419,703 tons were sold to local trade and employes, and 6,180,609 tons were used at the mines for steam and heat. The average price for the marketed product (excluding colliery consumption) in 1904 was $2 35, as against $2 50 in 1903.

Less Profitable Coal Sold.

One of the interesting features in connection with the anthracite trade is the constantly decreasing proportions of the large or more profitable sizes of coal sent to market, and the equally constant increase in the proportions of small or less profitable coal. In 1890, 77 per cent of the shipments from the anthracite regions consisted of sizes larger than pea coal, and 23 per cent represented the shipments of pea coal and smaller. In 1904 the large sizes made up only 62 per cent of the total, while the small sizes had increased to 38 per cent. Or, putting it in another way, the total tonnage of large sizes from 1890 to 1904 has increased 25 per cent (from 28,154,678 tons to 35,656,661 tons), while the tonnage of small sizes has increased 158 per cent, from 8,460,781 long tons in 1890 to 21,855,861 long tons in 1904.

The recovery of usable coal from the old culm banks by washing has furnished some of this increase in the shipments of small sizes, and the installation of washeries at the breakers for saving the small sizes in the primary preparation of the coal has done more. The recovery from the old culm banks has averaged about 2,500,000 long tons annually during the last four years.

Production of Bituminous.

The statistics of bituminous coal production comprise all varieties except Pennsylvania anthracite, and include semianthracites, semibituminous, cannel, splint and block coals, and brown and black lignites. The small production of anthracite in Colorado and New Mexico is also included in the bituminous output. In 1904 the aggregate production of all these varieties amounted to 278,040,244 short tons, valued at $306,669,508, against 282,749,348 short tons, worth $254,687,933 in 1903, indicating a decrease of 4,709,104 tons in amount and $45,618,425 in value. The average price a ton for all coal mined and sold, including colliery consumption, fell from $1 24 in 1903 to $1 10 in 1904.

Of 31 states there were only 10 in which there was an increase of production in 1904, and these 10 include the state of Nevada, which is credited with 350 tons in 1904 and had no production during the preceding year. Of the more important producing states, West Virginia, Indiana, Kentucky, Iowa, Kansas and Wyoming were the only ones that showed an increase in production in 1904. The only important increase was made by West Virginia, whose output in 1903 was curtailed by labor troubles, and whose gain in 1904 amounted to 3,000,000 tons.

RAIN WAS TOO HEAVY FOR VISITORS TO PARKS

Better Weather in the Afternoon Helped Attendance. Trolley Parks Open.

Heavy rains kept people out of the city parks yesterday morning. When the rain stopped in the afternoon many ventured to the municipal breathing spots, but no "Keep off the grass" signs were needed, for the green sward was saturated with water. The visitors kept carefully to the solid and comparatively dry pathways.

The Highland zoo was crowded, as usual, but it was too warm for comfort in the Phipps conservatories in Schenley park.

There was considerable doing in the trolley parks, where there is more shelter. Calhoun offered an especially attractive and entertaining program, with Vincent D. Nirella's Fourteenth Regiment N. G. P. band and the Blaney Crucible quartette.

Southern park audiences were entertained by Liegt. P. Dannhardt's Second Brigade band, assisted by the Iron City quartette. Among the band numbers were two sensational descriptive pieces, one of them "From Fireside to Battlefield," depicting the happenings to our soldiers during the Civil war.

On account of the improvements now under way at Oakwood not being completed, the opening of that park was postponed until next Sunday or the Sunday following. The formal opening of Calhoun, Southern and Oakwood will be on Decoration day by which time the many improvements being made at all the parks are expected to be completed.

At Kennywood, where many improvements have been made, Rocereto's band played afternoon and evening. Today is the big opening day. Many new amusement devices will be in operation, such as the big scenic railway, the circle swing, one of the most wonderful amusement devices ever invented, and the only one of its kind in this part of the country. It is like an immense umbrella. With the cars suspended from the tips of the ribs, centrifugal force sending the cars farther and farther from the axis of the machine, as the rotary motion of the whole increases. Then there is an immense airship.

It is not safe to risk valuables about the house, especially when you can rent a safe deposit box so cheaply, $5 a year and upward. The Safe Deposit and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Fourth avenue and Wood street.
